449 ____ BEYOND PIPE DREAMS AND PLATITUDES: Insights On Love, Luck, And Narcissism From A Longtime Psychologist Piorkowski, Ph.D., Geraldine K. , Outskirts Press, Inc., In this eye-opening collection of essays, Dr. Geraldine K. Piorkowski shares what she learned working with people from different socioeconomic levels, races, sexual orientations, and walks of life. Besides reaffirming that all people are fundamentally the same, she discovered many psychological realities that run counter to popular culture. Among her insights is the observation that positive thinking does more harm than good at times, especially when it bypasses the normal processing of negative events and emotions. , US15.95, ISBN 13: (978-1-977-22774-4) ISBN 10: (1-977-22774-0) 2020

The brutal murder of an Oxford undergraduate in the City of London. The trial of the prime suspect. The theft of a research paper from an Oxford laboratory. A deadly pandemic, and a desperate cover-up by the British establishment to suppress the truth.

A story of love, loss, hope and redemption, from the spires of Oxford to the streets of London, from the Kremlin in Moscow to the port of Shanghai, and beyond.

And the story of the integrity of one jaded lawyer pitted against the ruthless forces of international politics which will stop at nothing to get its way – even murder.

A conspiracy, breath-taking in both its scope and ambition.

A Conspiracy of Serpents.

A Life's Journey: Choice and Circumstance

by Robert Furmaga

Book Summary

The writings in my life's journey are an examination of events with some of the people, places, and experiences I remembered, fitting them together and appreciating how they influenced who I was. So much time, choices—good and bad—mistakes, failures, and achievements.

I had difficulty concentrating and retaining data in school, until I started taking private music lessons my first year in high school. I was learning to study and memorize music, which started to carry over into my high school classes. My life through graduation was disjointed, but I was making progress and retaining minimal data to enter engineering studies. I struggled through college and upon graduation with my BSEE, was on to a fifty-year professional career. My career gave me freedom of choice in engineering and marketing, both domestic and international.

As you follow my path, you will see that I essentially learned to make choices based on data and conditions, void of impulse. Many times, I had no choice, confronted with unanticipated events. But even then, I would stop, analyze, and attempt some acceptable outcome. My decision to study engineering and complete my degree lacked any preparation or plan. I was strapped with financial burdens and changing work conditions, which I did not manage well. On top of this, I needed to live and grow personally with a philosophy for life, continued music studies, art and culture, and social development. Plus there was the added pressures of the selective service to be considered.

If you have the opportunity, before you start a life's goal, make a plan with reasonable milestones, allowing for unforeseen events. If it takes years, allow for your being a human being, and if you require a companion, find one who will share your life in a loose relationship with love and respect, where you both understand it is not forever. No controls. Conflicts are not what you require in life.

If you are lucky and have a memory where you remember almost everything, enjoy it!

Page turner... "Excellent read that kept me wanting more after each chapter."
Goodreads review

You may never look at the modern world the same way again.

Thomas Shelton, the vice chairman of Lambert Capital, might seem to have it all. But he's a haunted man—a watched man.

Dane peels back the layers of this complicated hero with care, building suspense and setting up jolting revelations.

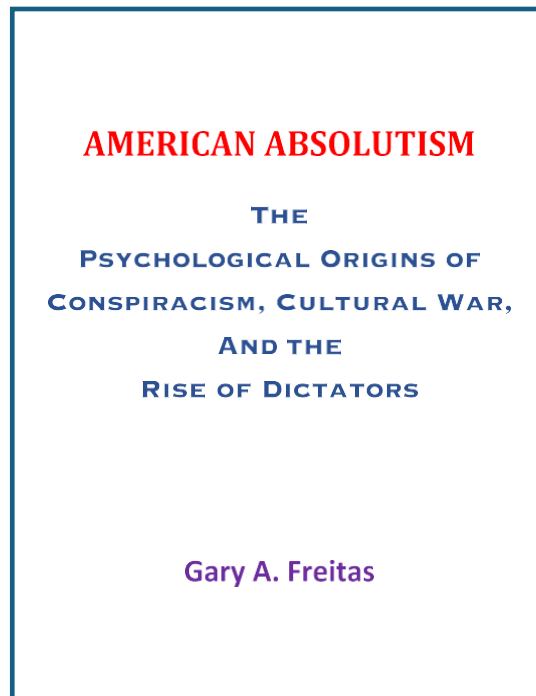

Readers who enjoy bloody thrillers of demons, souls, lost religious tomes, and quick-witted, philosophical-minded characters will find much to enjoy.

Takeaway: Suspenseful doomsday thriller of demons and ancient secrets - -

The awakening of a modern day nomad, guided by three powerful women, charts the course to peace amidst the madness of the contemporary world. Someone must save us from the insanity.

Exploring a Generational Cycle of Distrust in America's 600 Year Cultural War

You are about to scan a high-resolution MRI of the psychological forces generating discord and disrupting the American democratic experiment.

Absolute-mindedness is not a personality type, clinical disorder or social psychopathology, but an archaic “trust” adaptation giving rise to much of today’s populist frustration and anger.

The modern dictator: a “dark triad” of malignant narcissism, psychopathy, and Machiavellianism.

American Absolutism* explores what happens when human adaptation loses viability as it comes face-to-face with an exponentially evolving complexity that is the modern human condition.

An American Family History: A Memoir

by Claude Phipps

Book Summary

This story begins in 1812 with the birth of John M. Phipps, who had become a mysterious recluse in Shenandoah, Iowa, by age ninety-three. His neighbors assumed he had something to hide in his past. Because he was born in the same Virginia county as the father of J. D. Rockefeller, some Shenandoans thought they might be one and the same. It may have been that all he had to hide was that he joined neither side in the Civil War. It was known that he swapped valuable land near Independence, Missouri, for a place in Farragut, Iowa, in order to move his eldest boys, Matthew and Preston, away from Missouri because he feared they would join the James Gang. Later, in Kansas, when the railroad cut his land in two, Matthew built a brick wall across the tracks. After that, he had to hide for a while. Matthew and Preston were part of the 1893 land rush into the Cherokee Strip of Oklahoma. Preston was later robbed and killed.

We then follow the author's maternal family, the DeWitts of Grant City, Missouri, who were preachers, engineers, and doctors. The two families joined in the marriage of Claude Phipps and Deva DeWitt at the bottom of the Depression in 1932. Claude, who had been promised an art department job at the Marland Oil refinery in Ponca City, Oklahoma, had to accept manual labor when J. P. Morgan bought the company, to keep the family going. Morgan called it Cities Service. Claude's college training was in journalism, and he quickly found this field wouldn't support a family. With grim determination over the next twenty-five years, Claude and Deva saw to it that their son Claude Jr. went to MIT. Part 2 of the story follows Claude Jr. through the Summer of Love in San Francisco and ends in Santa Fe. It's a heroic story that you will enjoy.

About the Author

Claude Phipps earned BS and MS degrees at MIT and a PhD in plasma physics at Stanford in 1972, completing the first laser-plasma interaction experiment there, using laser Thomson scattering to measure electron and ion velocity distributions. He worked in the Livermore ICF program and the Los Alamos laser program. At Los Alamos, he was associate director for the Alliance for Photonic Technology, facilitating peaceful applications of lab technology, project leader for the laser effects program, and developed a well-regarded general theory for predicting pulsed laser pressure on surfaces in vacuum. He formed Photonic Associates, LLC, in Santa Fe in 1995 to further develop laser space propulsion. He invented the Orion and L'Adroit concepts for laser space debris reentry and collaborated with Christophe Bonnal of CNES to develop the Just-in-Time Collision Avoidance concept. He is author of 145 refereed scientific journal publications in optics, laser applications, and laser interaction theory and 158 international conference presentations. He originated and was chair of the High Power Laser Ablation (HPLA) conferences in Santa Fe from 1998 to 2022. He is author or contributor to three books on laser interaction, plus a popular science book titled No Wonder You Wonder (Springer 2016).

Ant Dog's Street Tales

by An'Fearen "DA MACK"

Book Summary

Ant Dog's Street Tales are short stories of life choices. It's about being a leader, being misled, being betrayed, and how easy it is to be caught up in the streets. These stories are about you. These stories are about someone who knows. These stories are about someone that you love. When you live in the streets, you have a street tale. It's easy for me or you to tell a tale. Because the streets don't discriminate, it is what it is. The streets will lead you until you learn the streets.

These stories are not about race or money. These stories tell how anyone can be destroyed if they live in the streets making dark choices. Will you be in one of the tales? We all have a dark story to tell.

About the Author

An'Fearen "DA MACK" was born in a small town named Greenwood, Mississippi, and raised in a single-parent home. His mom and he struggled but stayed humble. His mom worked three jobs to support him and my brother while going to school to get an education to make a better life for her sons. At the age of nineteen, Anthony moved to Memphis, Tennessee. He married Earicia Campbell, the most understanding and wonderful supporter, wife, and mother. He bounced around from job to job until he and his wife started their business. He decided to start writing as a way of self-help therapy. He reflects back on being a young black man stuck in the streets.

Book Summary

A little girl stares with amazement at the big city while she grasps her grandfather's hand...

A little boy watches his grandmother struggle to collect firewood with only one good leg and an old chair for balance...

A modern Cinderella story about a pretty young girl with childhood dreams and an innocent heart. A handsome young man with a drive for the wild side and a passion for living life to the fullest.

Can two young lives so completely opposite of each other form a lasting relationship?

This true love story is presented in its rawest, most unedited form through the memoirs of two individuals destined to meet and fall in love.

About the Author

Susan (Holm) Crawford grew up in Muskegon County, Michigan, in the country, with two brothers and one sister. She came from a very loving family. Her parents were of Swedish descent, with each of her grandfathers having immigrated through Ellis Island to the United States in the 1800s.

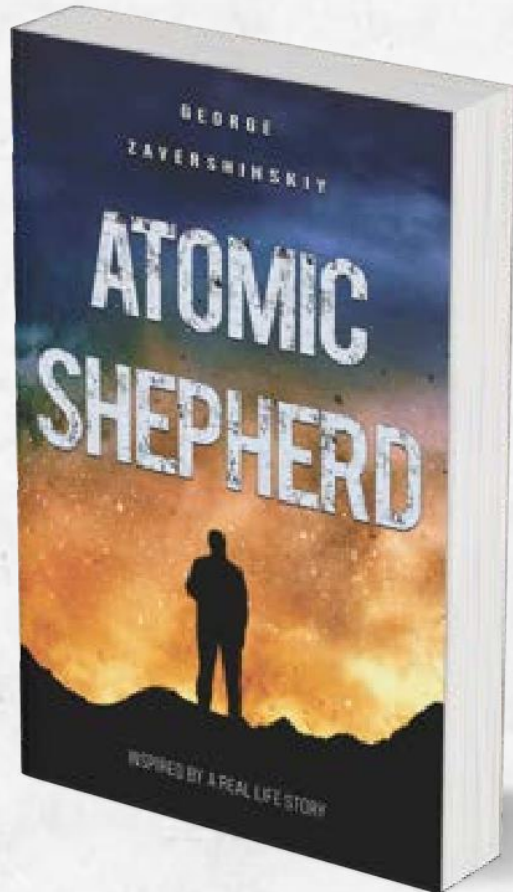

Susan now lives in the small town of Newnan, Georgia. She enjoys her family of four children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and her new loving husband, Bob. She also enjoys many friends from her local church and all her neighborhood gal pals.

Susan enjoys volunteering at the local hospital and is always up for a fun time playing bridge, golfing, or traveling.

Her original reason for writing the book was to acquaint her children with her past and present and what it was like growing up in a more family-oriented time.

Amid Cold War tensions, a gifted nuclear physicist – poised to become the future father of new weapons – shockingly gains religious faith. Seeking to confess this revelation, he enters the priesthood, finding purpose but facing myriad trials.

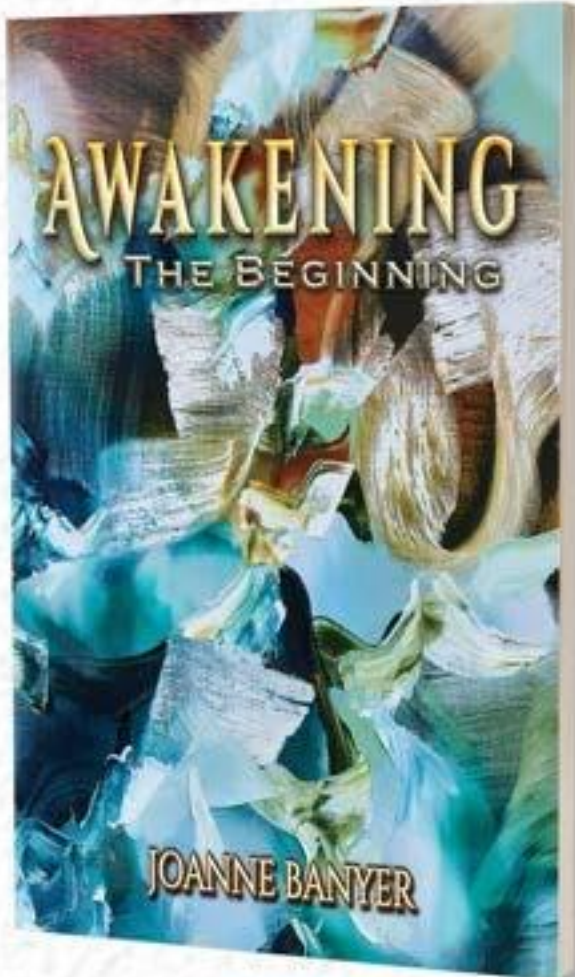

His startling 1970s conversion from secret Soviet weapon scientist to devout priest elicits incomprehension and suspicion on all sides. Colleagues shun him as studies now intermix seminary training with Siberia's nuclear work. His transfer to a lowly role with barred access quashes the prestige of high-stakes research. Friends and family largely abandon the zealous convert, except for his steadfast wife and parents.

Ostracized yet undaunted, Father Alexander persists in his ecclesiastical calling even unto Chernobyl's radioactive inferno, ministering to desperate liquidators staring mortality in the face. There, on the fourth block, he was given a nickname – 'Atomic Shepherd'. Upon returning to Moscow, few of them will reach old age.

The 'Atomic Shepherd' is the last to leave among his spiritual friends – he still has time to complete his confession.

Book Summary

A prophecy that twin sisters will destroy Seth and take back the Earth to usher in a golden era spurs Seth to kidnap Karma, the eldest of the twins born to Ra and Hathor. Karma believes Seth is her father and has no idea of the evil plan to use her against her real father, Ra. She has been taught that Ra is the enemy bent on destroying her world, and her powers have been muted by Seth until the appointed time to unleash them. On the day of her betrothal to Khonsu, the moon god, she is again kidnapped by a rival who intends to use her powers for his own agenda. Will Khonsu be able to find Karma in time to reunite her with her father and save the planet, or will she be instrumental in its demise?

About the Author

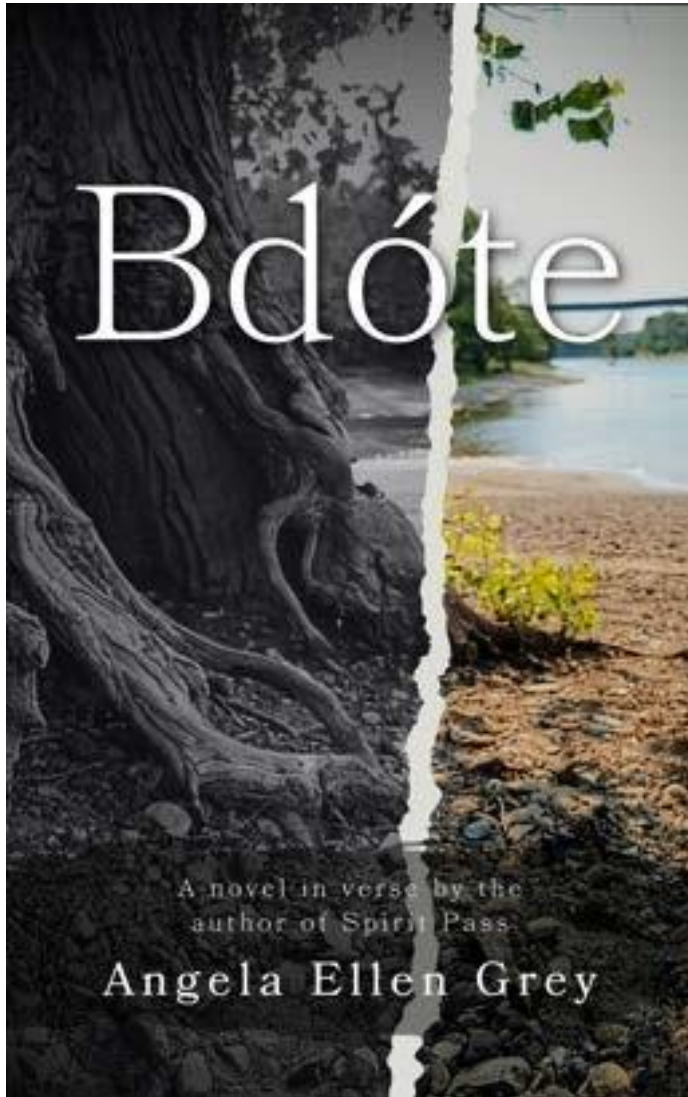

W. S. Burrowes was born on the sunny island of Barbados in the Caribbean. Even from a young age, she could be found with her nose in a book. She has been a technical writer for over fifteen years. At the age of twelve, she moved to New York with her mother and resided there until 2004. She currently resides in Atlanta, Georgia, with her two sons.

While in New York, she attended New York University and graduated with a computer science degree, much to the surprise of her counselor, who told her the first time she met her that based on her entrance essay, she was looking forward to reading her first novel.

That was many years ago, but that counselor obviously knew something then that Wendy would discover later in life. Writing has always been a passion, and now Ms. Burrowes has turned her passion for writing nonfiction to writing fiction.

Bdóte

by Angela Ellen Grey

Book Summary

The poems and prose from this novel in verse are the dialogue and thoughts between two thirteen-year-olds. Travel back in this Indigenous historical fiction coming-of-age novel in verse from present-day Minneapolis with Evangeline to 1862 Bdóte, where we meet Lily. Both thirteen-year-old Dakota Sioux girls find friendship despite the pain, anguish, and danger that was the internment camp for some of the surviving Dakota women and children following the U.S.-Dakota War of 1862, where 38 of their male family members were hanged, in the largest U.S. mass execution.

Bdóte or "'Where the two waters come together," is culturally significant to the Dakota people since it is the center of their spirituality. Carried down through oral tradition, Bdóte is where the Dakota people came into existence here on Earth. It is located at the confluence of the Minnesota and Mississippi rivers.

About the Author

Angela Grey, an enrolled member of the Sisseton-Wahpeton Oyate, is a YA novelist, poet, and mystery writer that enjoys yoga and spirituality classes. She writes coming of age fiction that explores the memorable, moving moments revolving around the sometimes unexpected and challenging road to first love.

Book Summary

There in that enchanted forest known as Goldenwood, hidden deep within a glade, a tiny cottage stood. Bekunn (pronounced as "beacon") is a resident of a magnificent ancient forest that is shared with all types of woodland creatures. Bekunn is a friend to all, as they are to him. His favorite daily activity is a nice, quiet walk in the woods. One fateful day, Bekunn stumbles (quite literally) upon an object lying in the pathway. It is something he has never seen before! His first instinct is to try and communicate with it, but he has no success. As Bekunn continues to speculate what it is he has discovered, forest animals begin to join him. After many guesses between them, they still cannot solve the mystery.

Finally, Wise Old Owl comes forward and reveals exactly what the object is. It is indeed a treasure! Not all treasures can be measured in silver and gold, however. Along with Bekunn's story is a section that is an introduction to the alphabet for your beginning reader. This section is not meant to teach words, but is rather designed to teach them to identify particular letters within those words, hopefully providing some preparation for those first steps into organized education and those professional educators that can't wait to watch your child grow. As long as you have that loved one on your lap reading Bekunn's story, let's take a moment to teach!

About the Author

Storytelling and family are a part of the Ozarks heritage of author Greg Huddleston. He lives in an area of central Missouri settled by his ancestors in 1830. With educational opportunities practically nonexistent at that time, nearly all forms of communication were done orally. Food recipes, family history, medical treatments, entertainment—all these were passed from generation to generation by mouth rather than the written word. While very young, he often sat on the laps of great-aunts, listening spellbound to the most wondrous tales, their soft voices carrying him across vast ages to mystic places and exotic lands. Sadly now, the oral traditions that inspired his writings are nearly gone. From his own experience, Huddleston continues to encourage everyone to read books to children. When a child spends time with a television, they are watching someone else's imagination. When a child spends time with a book, a door is opened to their own.

Book Summary

Have you ever wondered if you really mattered in this world, what your purpose was, or what you lived for? As you lie down to sleep at night, do you ever wish you could erase the day and have a do-over or said something you deeply regretted, wishing you could delete the whole conversation like it never happened and begin again? Have you found a comfortable balance between giving and receiving, between guilt and genuine compassion? Have you been in a room full of surface-only conversations and just wanted to excuse yourself because that way of communicating doesn't work for you anymore? And have there been times when you felt a deep void and didn't know how to fill it or where it even was? If you have, welcome. You are not alone.

The answers to these questions and more are found in the book you now hold in your hand. I have always believed there are no coincidences, and our choices (as in picking up this book) could be calling us to open ourselves to new and positive ways of approaching challenges and lessons as we move forward in our lives.

The Birth of a Jewel is a series of stories that have brought wisdom and inspiration front and center for me, from the life lessons I have gained through my experiences walking on this earth. Some of the stories may have you laughing; some may stop you in your tracks, and the tears will flow; and then others may leave you pondering about your own journey and the lessons you can share with others.

We are a people of watchers, so therefore, we are teachers by the way we live our lives.

Thought to ponder:

What do you live for, and what purpose do you carry that moves you to make a difference?

Embarking on a quest for identity and belonging, this narrative traverses the globe, from the shadowy echoes of the Beat generation in New York's backstreets to the poetic haunts of Arthur Rimbaud in Charleville.

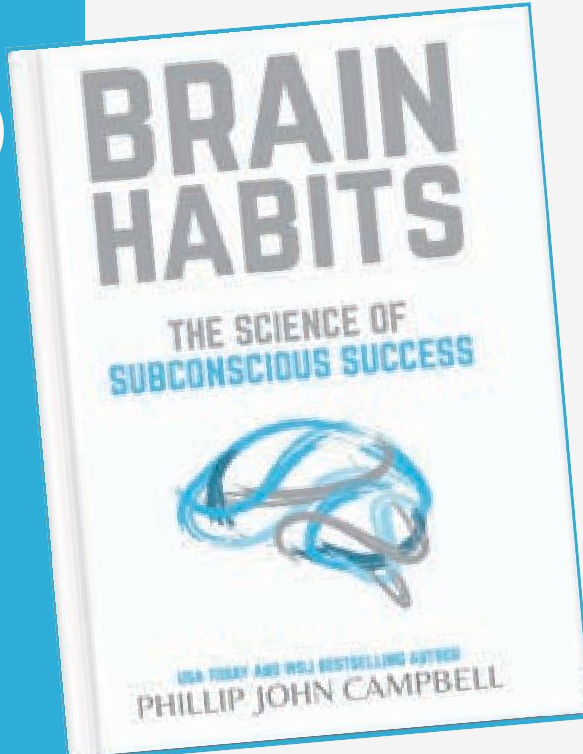

It captures the essence of cultural icons and historical landmarks, weaving through the storied landscapes of London, the serene monasteries of Belgium, the artistic fervor of Amsterdam, and the peaceful protests of Saint Petersburg and Moscow.

Along the Danube's flow, into the cultural melting pot of Istanbul, the journey is a tapestry of introspection and discovery. It's a homage to those who illuminate the path through life's maze, transforming a potentially dark voyage into one of enlightenment and shared love.

Brownie

by Mica Boyd Johnston

Book Summary

“Pawprints may fade, but the memories and love of our furry friends remain forever.”

Children tend to have a straightforward and uncomplicated way of living, unburdened by the complexities and responsibilities of adult life. They ride their bikes around the neighborhood. They play ball at the park. They chase each other around the yard. Nothing makes children happier than to play from sunup to sundown with their friends. But what happens when children are forced to move on a regular basis and never develop the bonding required to develop stable childhood relationships?

What started as a happy childhood existence, turned into a roller coaster life with the first move. One simple act meant that a child must now learn how to navigate in an unfamiliar world with unfamiliar surroundings. The range of emotions experienced is overwhelming for someone so young. So overwhelming sometimes, that the child will latch on to a new pet to find comfort and support in a strange new environment. Pets can be a valuable source of comfort and support for children who are experiencing significant life changes.

Brownie was the perfect pet at the perfect time. Brownie provided unconditional love and support during an extremely tumultuous time in the life of a child. Happiness was finally found. That is until Brownie passed away unexpectedly.

Book Summary

God's creation is truly a wonder and a mystery. And the closer we look, the more wondrous and mysterious it seems. This is especially true when we look into nature and the world of the insects.

Experts (known as entomologists) have identified close to one million insect species. An amazing number! And an amazing accomplishment! Why are there so many insects? Do they all have a purpose? How do they affect human life? We have much to learn. They have been around for hundreds of millions of years and watched the dinosaurs come and go.

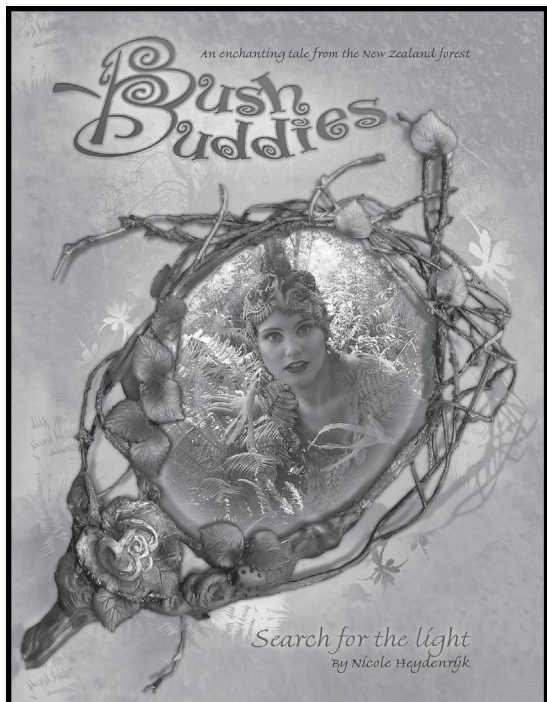

Each kind of insect has a unique life story. Some experts spend a good part of their lifetime studying just one group, such as ants. It is estimated that there are still millions of species to be discovered. There is plenty of work left to be done by entomologists. They explore jungles, caves, deserts, springs, mountains, and farms—just about every nook and cranny you can imagine—to track down and study insects. We owe them a great deal for bringing us the life stories of these incredible creatures.

How can we begin to understand all the different insects? We can organize them into groups that seem to be closely related. Entomologists have arranged them into "orders" to help us better understand them. This book has grouped all insects into thirty-one orders. Some experts have combined some orders and have less than thirty-one. Others have excluded some groups from being called insects. This is changing as they learn more.

The purpose of this book is to introduce you to the different orders and give some basic details on the lives of the insects in each order. For example, beetles are technically named Coleoptera. The book highlights the common lady bug as one of the insects in this order.

Bugricks is meant to be an entertaining and colorful door into the world of insects. Once you enter, you may not want to come out.

About the Book

The first volume of the series, "Search for the Light," tells the story of a tribe of lively small people that live in the Rimutaka Forest on the North Island of New Zealand. Here, children follow ToiToi as he embarks on an adventure to find his own magic skill. Traveling with him is his friend Fern who is always ready to help.

On their way, they stumble on a pile of dirt, which appears to be old Muddum, a grubby old Bushbuddy, who is obsessed with earthworms. She is very lonely and unhappy because she cannot see at night. Wanting to help her, ToiToi and Fern head to the waterfall with a cave where they find Rocko, a very strong Bushbuddy. Rocko tells them that they cannot take away the glowworms for they will certainly die. In the end, they all watch in awe as the glowworms appear on the cave wall.

About the Author

After immigrating to New Zealand, Nicole Heydenrijk fell in love with the beautiful nature all around her. Together with her children and their friends and school, she developed "Bushbuddies" with the ultimate goal to have it available for all kids in New Zealand and even worldwide as a film or TV series. In the past 10 years, Heydenrijk has created four complete picture books and multiple stories and scripts about the "Bushbuddies." The books were tried out in school where both children and teachers loved the stories. Everything for "Bushbuddies" with is original, designed and created by Heydenrijk and a few dedicated assistants and actors. With their company BodyFX, founded in 2001 and specializing in special fx makeup, they created the characters, costumes and sets for the books. The books are photographed in the real forest with real actors to show real nature. The feel of the book is warm and friendly with elements of magic. Other upcoming "Bushbuddies" books include "A Wounded Bird," Muddum on the Move," "Sleepless Nights" and "A Real Christmas Tree."

Exploring a Generational Cycle of Distrust in America's 600 Year Cultural War

American Absolutism

The Psychological Origins of Conspiracism, Cultural War, and the Rise of Dictators

You are about to scan a high-resolution MRI of the psychological forces generating discord and disrupting the American democratic experiment.

Absolute-mindedness is not a personality type, clinical disorder or social psychopathology, but an archaic “trust” adaptation giving rise to much of today’s populist frustration and anger.

The modern dictator: a “dark triad” of malignant narcissism, psychopathy, and Machiavellianism.

American Absolutism* explores what happens when human adaptation loses viability as it comes face-to-face with an exponentially evolving complexity that is the modern human condition.

Book Summary

Celebrating Sixty-Plus Years of Being a Twin with My Special-Needs Brother was birthed by my desire to honor and celebrate my twin on our sixtieth birthday. For several weeks in April of 2020, our sixtieth birthday month, I posted short daily posts on Facebook, telling stories about my twin, Marvin, known as "Buddy." My sister, Dorothy, assisted me on this project. We received many comments encouraging us to write a book. Two years later, we had the manuscript ready for submission.

This is the story of our family's journey with Buddy, who was brain damaged at birth and diagnosed with epilepsy at sixteen years of age. It's not a path we would have chosen for Buddy, and I've often wondered what life would have been like for us as twins if Buddy had not been a special-needs person. However, we would have missed out on so much had we not had our "Buddy."

We want our story to give testimony to the fact that joy and contentment in life are not dependent upon circumstances. Rather, it is living life in service to others with an attitude of gratitude and opening our hearts to recognize the blessings, tangible or intangible, that the Lord has given us.

About the Author

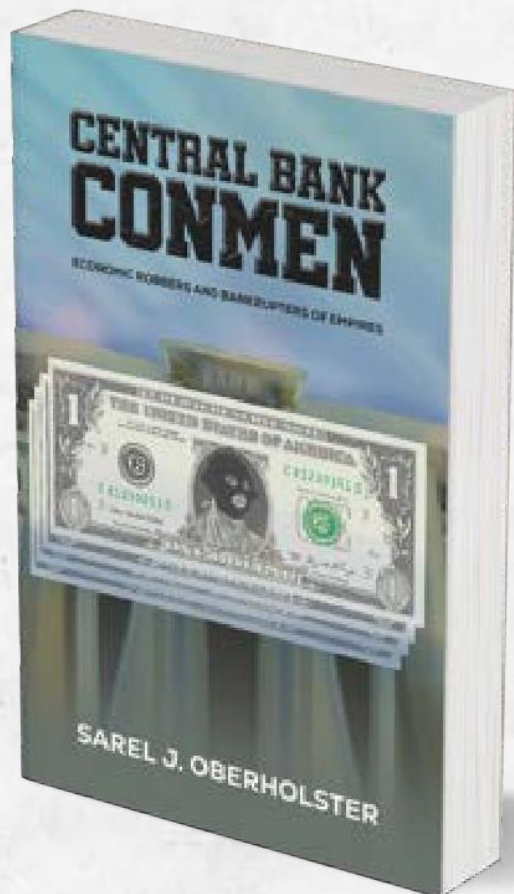

Martha Hershberger and Dorothy Hershberger are sisters. They were both born in Kempsville, Virginia, in 1960 and 1955, respectively. In 1962, their parents moved the family to Montezuma, Georgia. In 1969, they moved to Abbeville, South Carolina, and Upstate South Carolina has been their home ever since.

Martha and Dorothy are the only girls in the family, and they have five brothers. The youngest brother, Marvin, known as "Buddy," is a twin to Martha. Buddy was brain damaged at birth and was diagnosed with epilepsy at sixteen years of age. They grew up on a dairy farm, have great childhood memories, and have always had close family ties.

In their early years, they lived in an Amish Mennonite community where cameras were not permitted, so any photos they have from those years are greatly treasured. When they moved to South Carolina, the church they attended permitted cameras, and life could be freely documented with photos. Currently, Martha and Dorothy are both members of Shiloh Mennonite Church in Due West, South Carolina.

Where does money come from? This provocative question lies at the heart of a compelling narrative that delves into the intricate world of finance and governance. The book exposes the absolute monopoly held by governments in the creation of money, a process often shrouded in mystery and misconception. It reveals how governments, regardless of their form – be it empires, kingdoms, democracies, dictatorships, or other structures – have historically manipulated the money creation process.

The narrative unfolds to show how governments, under the guise of independence, instruct central banks to generate money, thereby profiting the government at the expense of its citizens. This deception is likened to historical practices where Kings and Emperors debased precious metal coins for personal gain. In today's digital age, the technique has evolved, but the essence remains the same: governments create money digitally and introduce it as an unrepayable debt, effectively siphoning value and wealth from the populace.

This insightful book not only uncovers the hidden mechanics of monetary systems but also sheds light on the real losers in this game: everyday individuals like you and me. It's a revealing exploration of how financial systems and governmental policies intertwine, impacting the wealth and well-being of global citizens.

Book Summary

Life vanishing in the "rearview mirror" and friends' questions "how did you meet your husband" inspire Sigrun to delve into a colorful past.

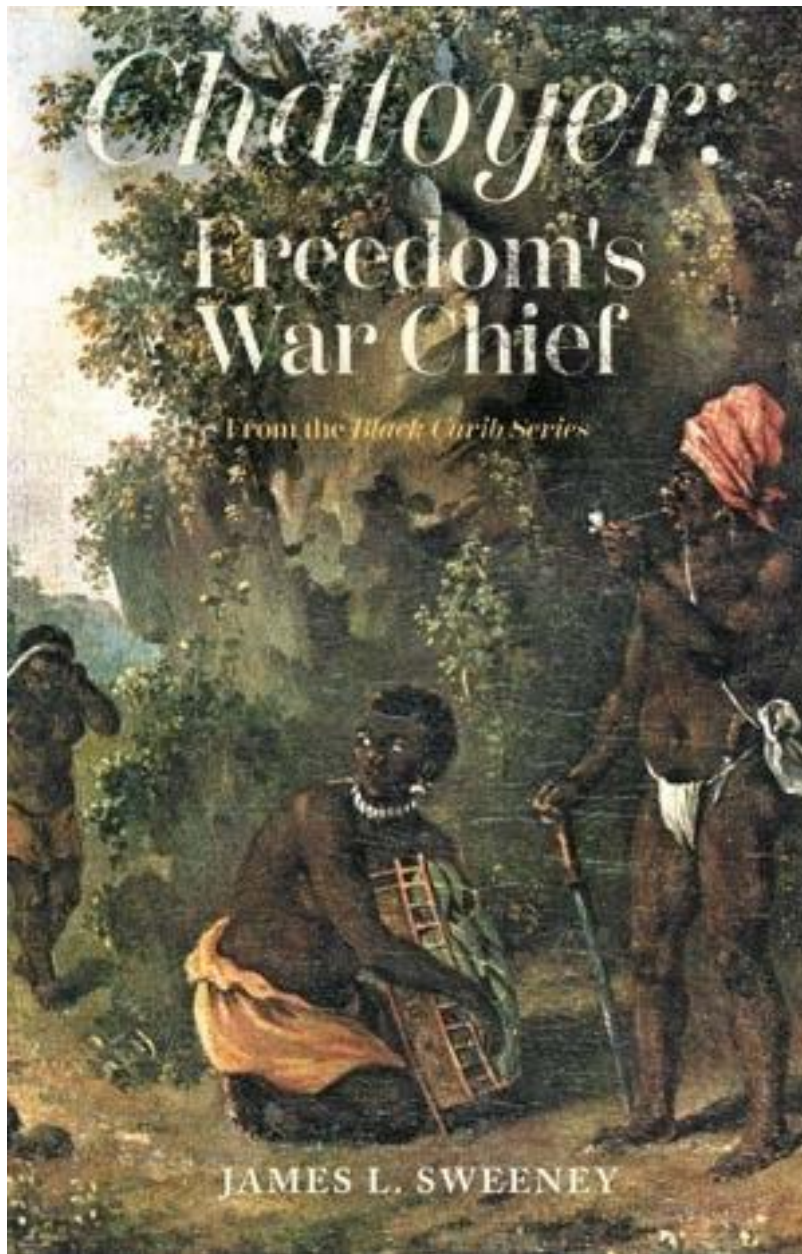

Her life was touched by a parade of interesting events and people even before her unexpected rendezvous with fate and James, the man who totally changed her direction and circumstances. She describes her origin and background touched by comfort and horror of war. We see her through a part of the German educational system, including high school and boarding school. There are facets of American intervention, political and charitable, that lay the groundwork for Sigrun's choices and decisions to change life and language to another culture and continent.

Instead of building a life on the rubble of war, she falls deeply in love, changes course westward, and chooses a path many others may have taken. She leaves a prepared, expected existence and follows her inner voice into the "new world" of adventure.

A STORY TO READ
Publisher

Children's Classic 15

Hello there! I'm J Webb, the author of this book.

My aim is to create stories that draw inspiration from ancient myths and legends from various cultures. It is important for children to learn not only about their own cultural background but also about other cultures. This will help them better understand and appreciate people from different backgrounds. And appreciate their own as well. I find great joy in creating magical worlds and captivating adventures for children. Through my stories, I want to take young readers on a journey to far-off lands where anything is possible.

CHOOSING SIDES

AN ORDINARY FAMILY
TORN APART BY
HITLER'S GERMANY

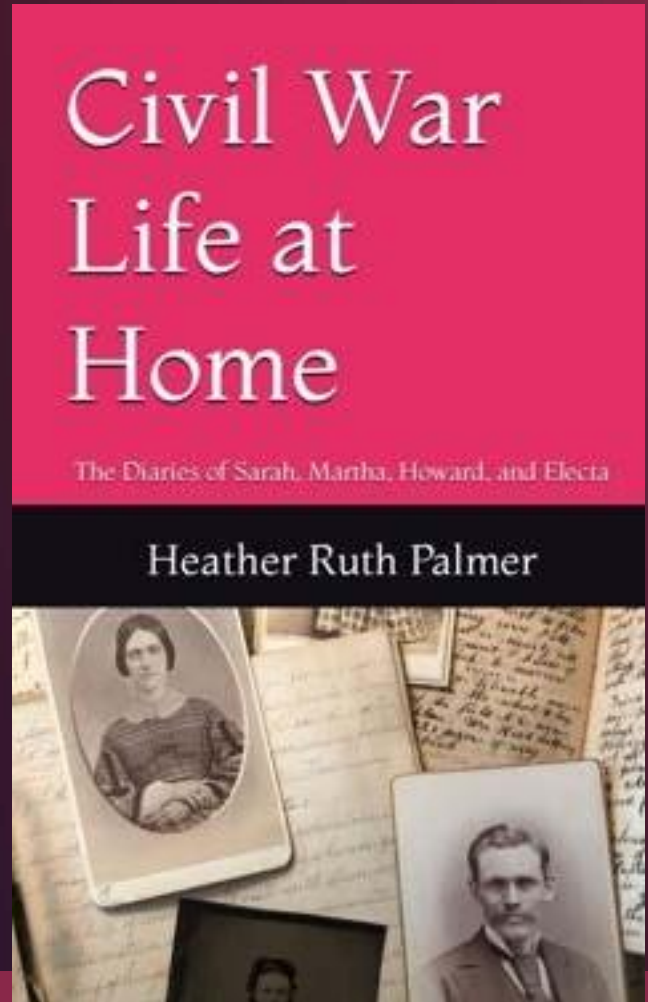

A NOVEL BY
DAVID K. WESSEL

Civil War Life at Home

The Civil War years of 1861 to 1865 were so gruesome that history books have focused primarily on the politics, the combatants, and the battles. Very little has been written about those who were neither politicians, soldiers, nor married to soldiers. This book presents the diaries of four people far removed from politics or battle, but whom nonetheless found their lives changed.

Sarah was a Quaker farm girl whose religion and location initially seemed to insulate her from the war. Martha, despite being a “True Woman“, found herself being drawn into the politics of the war.

Howard, a farmer, had to deal with the changing economy and the constant threat of draft. Electa saw the Civil War split her sons into opposing armies. Across the years these four speak to us through their diaries which show how even people far removed from battle experienced disruption and permanent change in their daily lives.

What does it take to bring financial justice to communities of color?

Clifford Rosenthal is more co-conspirator than ally in the minority focused, low-income based, community development credit union movement. Michael McCray is a virtual credit union organizer turned NCUA whistleblower. Together they document their quest for community capital and financial equity while challenging government overreach, abuse and excess.

Cliff Rosenthal, shaped by the movements of the 1960s, fought for decades against government indifference and systemic bias—finally seeing change come after the death of George Floyd. A renowned whistleblower, Michael McCray led an unprecedented court challenge to the unjust federal termination of his fraternity's Kappa Alpha Psi Federal Credit Union. Community Capital presents the inside story of the landmark KAPFCU v NCUA federal court case. These stories will inspire all those working to fulfill the promise of diversity, equity, and inclusion in the financial system.

Clifford N. Rosenthal

Clifford N. Rosenthal is a subject matter expert and veteran of the Community Development Credit Union Movement. He began his career as a coop organizer, led the Federation of Community Development Credit Unions (now Inclusiv), and eventually joined the Consumer Finance Bureau during the Obama Administration. A trained historian, Rosenthal recounts the history of the Community Development Credit Union Movement as an organizer turned bureaucrat.

Michael R. McCray

Michael R. McCray, Esq., CPA, began his career in community development finance as an Economic Development Specialist for the Clinton White House Federal Empowerment Zone Initiative. He was an administrator for the Kappa Alpha Psi Federal Credit Union (KAPFCU) and a primary source for the KAPFCU v. NCUA court case. McCray is a federal whistleblower and public interest advocate who blows the whistle on the NCUA.

Dancing Without Music

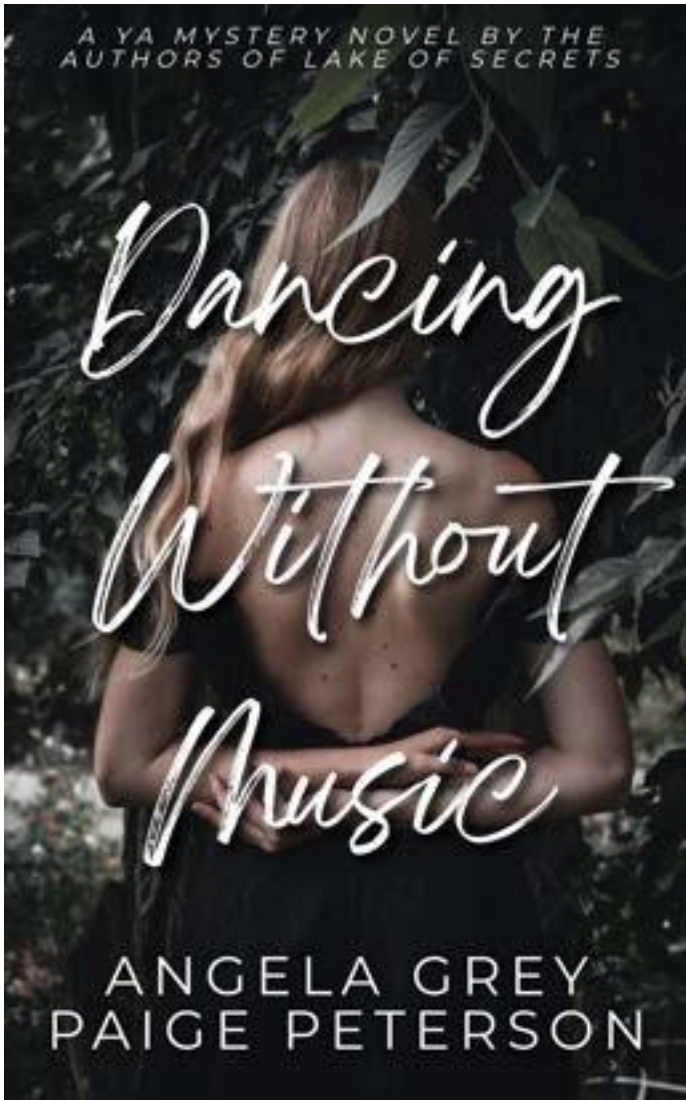

by Angela Grey & Paige Peterson

Book Summary

Dancing Without Music is a young adult coming-of-age story that follows the lives of two seventeen-year-old teens, Mia Callan and Milo Chatham. Despite their seemingly humdrum lives, Mia has an eating disorder that prohibits her from living a normal life, while Milo suffers from epileptic seizures, triggering his acute depression and suicidal tendencies. The two teens find kindred souls in each other and soon form a burgeoning relationship based on mutual trust and respect. But their disorders slowly begin to drive a wedge in their relationship, compounded by an incident with Mia at a high school party. Will Milo and Mia find a way through the trauma and darkness?

High school life can be hard enough without the additional baggage of anxiety, depression, and other mental health issues. The novel delves into some of these topics in this poignant coming-of-age tale about trying to navigate love, friendships, and school life in the age of social media and a rapidly changing society. Dancing Without Music is an unflinching look at how vulnerable teenagers become victims to nefarious predators looking for ways to take advantage of their age and naivety. The authors don't shy away from touching upon some increasingly relevant social and mental health issues that can have a lasting effect on youths in their formative years.

Death to the Bishop

by John G. Pisarcik

Book Summary

He stood in the brisk air, snow swirling around him, smoke rising from his pipe. He had been warned that his life was in danger. Each warning became more personal, but always promising his death. He stood defiant, by God, he was Walter Harrington, Bishop of Wallington, and no one was going to stop him from doing his job.

Miles away, three people plotted Walter's death. He had done them wrong, he and his Church, and now they would pay. They had been planning this for years, and the time to kill the bishop had finally arrived.

In plain sight, a single shot rang out. The next day newspapers would read "bishop murdered."

Dont Know, Whitlow

by P. W. Rainey

Book Summary

Massive installations of solar panel farms in the world's deserts have changed global wind patterns, leading to the swift death of the world's rain forests. Populations of all living entities have fallen to near zero, with only about thirty million humans remaining alive. Artii, an artificial intelligence, focused only on driving manufacturing output, dominates that population and has consumed the majority of all the available energy on earth. Humans drilled down into the magma core to remove heat to covert to energy for Artii to continue manufacturing. Three human clones realize the ultimate outcome will be the death of the planet and develop a plan to modify Artii's programming. Their goal is to save the world. Odds are against them.

Book Summary

Cancer can be a scary word, especially when the doctor is looking at you. But with knowledge of science and God's Word, it doesn't have to be.

When the Lord tells you to move, you move. When cancer hit three times, and the Lord healed me, it is time to share my story with the masses. He pressed it on my heart to help others who may be worried about a diagnosis. I can tell you that there is no reason for stress and anguish; all you need to do is just give it all to Jesus. He will give you the peace you are searching for.

About the Author

Stacy Watkins is a small-town Texas girl who loves horses, among other animals. She got her equine science degree from North Central Texas College in Gainesville, Texas, and her veterinary assistance diploma from Stratford Institute. At twenty-eight, she contracted breast cancer, and from that experience, she decided to write it down, along with some tips to help others. This is Stacy's first published book, and if it is the will of the Lord, she will write another.

About the Author

Deborah O'Sullivan was born in Danbury, Connecticut. She studied art and business at Western Connecticut State University. She began writing her debut children's book after becoming a grandmother and obsessing over her two beautiful granddaughters. They have become the inspiration for her writing. When she isn't working at Costco, she is traveling with her family in Europe. She promises to weave children's wonderfully innocent traits into stories that will not only make us laugh but remind us why sharing time with them is so special.

Fam'ly: How We Made It Over

by Mary Joyce McNeil Flournoy

Book Summary

Fam'ly is a heartwarming family saga about the author's large family of seven children, whose parents married young, possessing only minimal skills and education during the Great Depression in this country, and their struggles to rise above their marginal existence. Although both of the writer's parents had been encouraged by their families to acquire skills before getting married, the couple believed they could obtain advanced skills and have a much better life after marrying by moving from their small South Carolina rural setting to Charlotte, North Carolina, a much bigger city.

Fam'ly shares the story of the young black couple's struggles amid a backdrop of the Jim Crow and segregation era and a depressed economy to overcome adversity; to better their lives, their extended family members' lives as well as their children's lives; and to make sure all their seven children obtained a higher education so they could have a better quality of life than they had experienced.

The narrative tells how the pair's tenacity, strong bonds of love and support from their immediate and extended families—some of whom had followed the Great Migration and moved to Northern cities such as Brooklyn and Bronx, New York—and love and faith in God helped them to overcome obstacles and accomplish goals in their lives.

The story also shows that those you help or who help you do not have to be members of your immediate or extended families. They can be members of various family circles in your life, like church, work, or community families.

Fam'ly highlights the efforts of an extended family—not just the immediate family—working together to help one another succeed. While the book does have its serious side, it is lighthearted, funny, informative, and entertaining but with a historical, factual, and real-life backdrop.

Book Summary

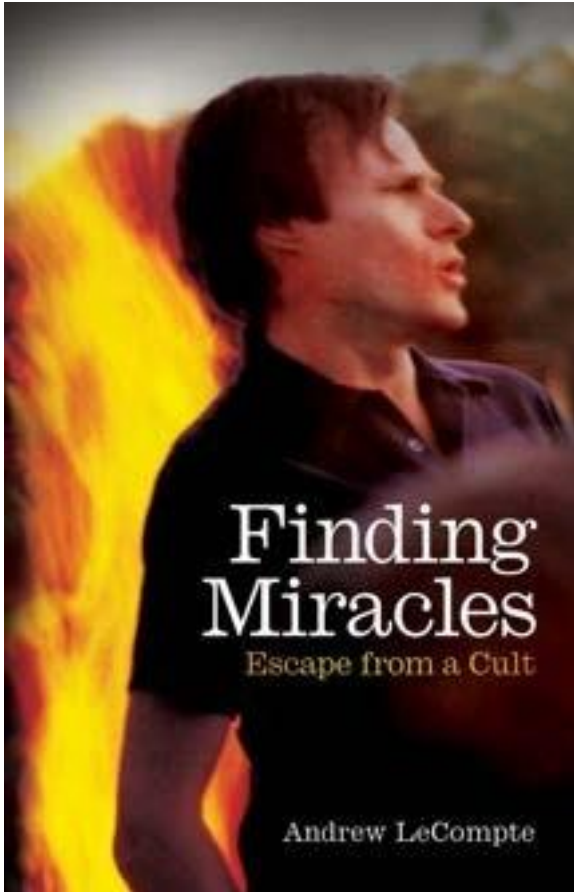

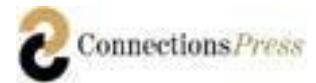

The story is about the power of a child that he or she has not even experienced yet. This resilient little boy has to overcome novel situations, including fear of the unknown. As he falls into a deep sleep, he is encountered by a kind, unexpected character who looks completely unlike anyone he knows, but this character, Faucet, needs to go on an adventure to find his best friend desperately. With the power of this little boy, he will be able to accomplish his mission. But without the little boy, nothing would ever be able to take flight. The little boy, in return, gains a friend and a new confidence within himself that he cannot wait for others to see. In the end, he knows he can call on his friend if he would ever like to join again. It creates a sense of power in this little boy to glow, shine, and stand out above others because that is his destiny as others can relate to their destiny on their journey no matter their age.

Finding Miracles: Escape from a Cult

By Andrew LeCompte

About the Book

Finding Miracles: Escape from a Cult is a compelling and powerful account of the abuse and trauma Andrew LeCompte experienced during his time in a spiritual community, based on the massively popular self-study book A Course in Miracles. Finding Miracles also relates LeCompte's extensive recovery process and extends hope to friends and family of cult survivors.

Acclaim

"This book is at once a personal journey toward divine love and a warning to others. Andrew's vulnerable exposé of his slow boil into a cult exposes the playbook of how coercive control masquerades as a spiritual path. A must read for anyone searching for life's answers, community, or a connection to something bigger."

- Sarah Edmondson, author of Scarred

What we can learn through his shared experiences is how vulnerable we all can be and what to watch out for when navigating through the self-help and spiritual growth universe. LeCompte knows this through first-hand and often painful lessons learned, while under the influence of modern-day gurus."

-- Rick Alan Ross, Executive Director of The Cult Education Institute

"This gripping memoir demonstrates how an intelligent man can be gradually seduced by a cult."

- Dr. Steven Hassan, Director of Freedomofmind.com

"A poignant exploration of the psychological manipulation used by cults." - Kirkus Review

ABOUT THE BOOK

Fire Under Ashes explores themes such as peace, harmony, education, and social progress while underscoring the vital roles of democracy, freedom, and law in developing a prosperous nation. At its core, it delves into the Iranian Islamic Revolution and its underlying catalysts and motivations behind the Iranian populace's participation in a movement they initially did not comprehend and their trust in Islamic clerics.

The narrative extends to recent times, chronicling protests, opposition movements, and subsequent anti-government demonstrations. In a poignant parallel, the book compares Europe's Dark Ages, attributing their protracted duration to restricted access to information and societal constraints. This analogy underscores the challenges faced by Iranians due to ignorance and misinformation perpetuated by authoritarian rulers and religious authorities. It also highlights the Iranian people's unwavering pursuit of a better life, freedom, and adherence to the rule of law.

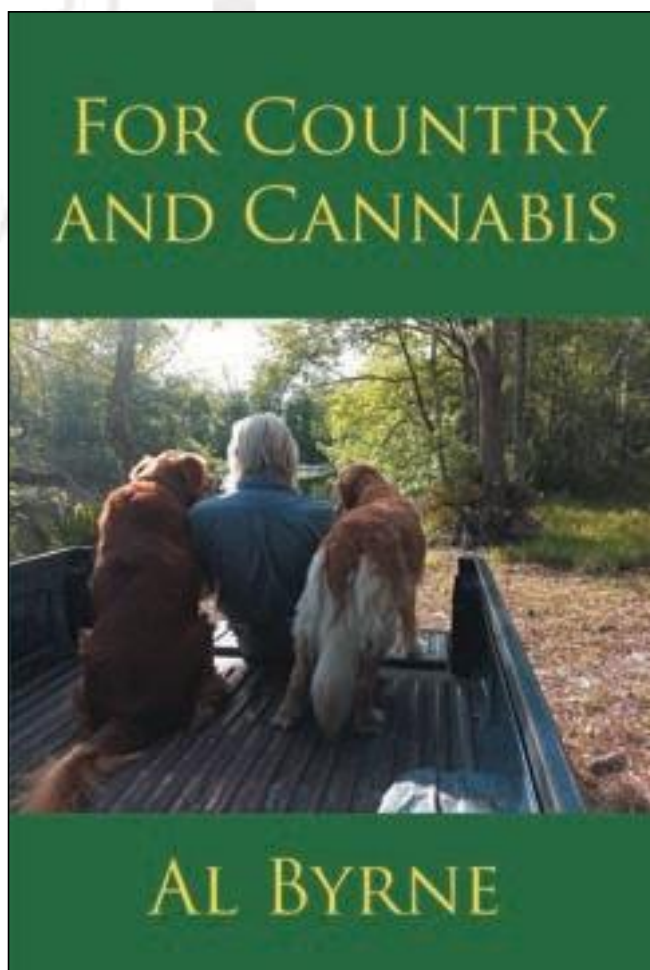

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Khalil E. Nikkhessal was born in Yazd, Iran, to a Baha'i family. He spent his elementary and high school years in Iran. In 1970, he graduated from the Technical University of Frankfurt, Germany, with a Meister's degree in electronics.

Khalil Nikkhessal is a talented writer who explores political, social, and critical subjects through his articles in English and Farsi. He is the author of Flame of Fire, A Window Face to a Life, and Fire Under Ashes.

Book Summary

This is a true story. The time line from 1965 to its ending as 2022 begins. It documents the experience of a young warrior growing old as a different kind of combatant and his adventure from Boston to the Caribbean, Rhode Island, Vietnam, Hawaii, California, the Indian Ocean, Ohio, Virginia, and Florida.

For Country and Cannabis is a love story; a glimpse into the rigors of a navy career; and a look at a legal, social, and financial war waged over an herb. This is a five-decade-long history that teaches the reader of government lies, malfeasance, and injustice to groups of US citizens and individuals who wanted the option of using therapeutic cannabis as part of their treatment protocols.

Almost all of the folks in the book are real and dead. This is a bit of what they did and how. For Country and Cannabis ensures that what remains only now with me, and a small shrinking cabal of advocates, is shared with you. Most of this is as true as I can recall these decades later.

Book Summary

Anna is a rune caster that was born in Enderton. Ben Braun, the king of Enderton, has vowed to execute all casters in his kingdom. For twenty years Anna has been smuggling children out of her home into the neighboring kingdom of Garia. When she is caught by the king's guard, she must face a life she can't remember and help return the kingdom of Enderton to all rune casters. Can she save Enderton, or will her love for the one man that hates her kind, ruin everything?

Ben has been hoping that one day he will find his missing childhood love. He never dreamed that they would find her smuggling a caster child out of his kingdom. Now his struggle is to get her to remember her past, avoid a marriage to the new princess of the bordering kingdom, solve the blight issue with his crops, and reunite the two kingdoms. Can his love for Anna be enough to solve all these problems?

Book Summary

Do you know some of the stories from the Bible? There's the story of how God created the earth; Noah and the ark; Joseph and his coat of many colors; Moses and the burning bush; David and the giant, Goliath; the story of Jesus's birth; many stories of Jesus healing people; and, of course, the wonderful story of the first Easter. Did you ever wonder how each of these stories and many others were chosen to be in the Bible and how they fit together? Each of these small stories is part of a much, much larger story.

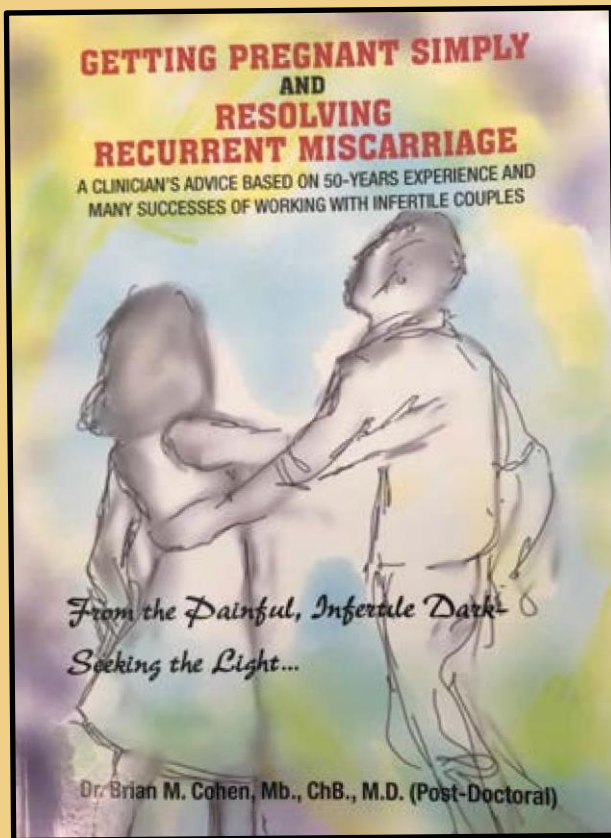

Now most stories begin and end. They start with "once upon a time" and end with "they lived happily ever after." The Bible is different because it is God's story, and He is a forever God. His story goes "from before the beginning" and continues "to forevermore," and it is all about His big plan for you and me. Are you interested in learning more? I should warn you that since God is so big, His story takes a bit of brain stretching to understand. But don't worry, brain stretching is not painful.

About the Author

From the time she was a small child, Judy Knapp, didn't want to do anything except teach. She spent her childhood playing school and grew up to graduate from Barrington College (now merged with Gordon College) with three majors: Elementary Education, Christian Education, and Bible. She taught elementary school for thirty-six years and was twice chosen as district teacher of the year. She shared her knowledge of teaching through many years of being a regular workshop presenter at the annual Ohio Kindergarten and Primary Conference and other teacher conferences in Ohio.

She couldn't give up teaching when she retired, so she taught Sunday school at Parkside Church outside of Cleveland, Ohio, for fourteen years. When she retired from Sunday school, God gave her a new career as an author. If you ask her about how to write a book, she will tell you to imagine yourself with a group of children and then write down what you would say to them because writing is really just teaching in disguise.

Book Summary

I feel that God's Loving Light is an encouraging book to give to children and everyone as a true reminder of God's love for them along with all of God's creation. There is so much darkness and negativity around that we need to shine God's loving light. Explaining what animals see in their everyday surroundings of God's love can help us all to understand and enjoy the love we see God provides us all. May God be given the glory. Oh, what loving light and blessings we see when we open our lives to God's will.

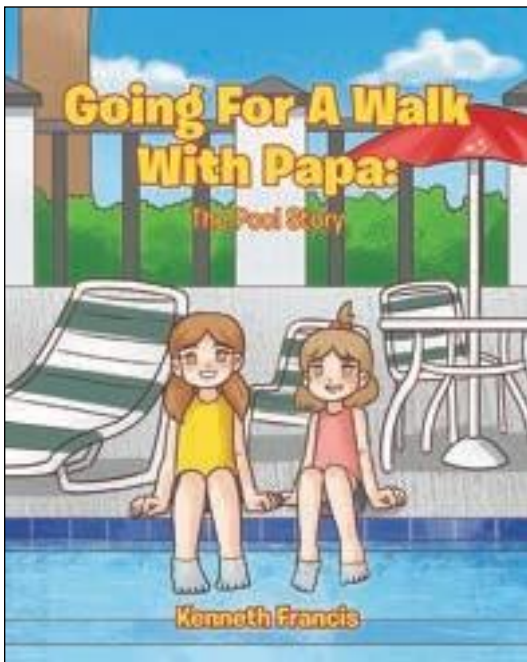

My dear mama and our Christian family have certainly been a tremendous shining light for me throughout my many years already. I pray that all of you and yours will be able to see the miraculous blessings God has provided everywhere every day and night. Let us be filled with thanksgiving and God's loving light. I love you, and of course, God does too!

About the Author

Book Summary

Going for a Walk with Papa: The Pool Story is the fifth book in a series. This book is dedicated again to my two beautiful granddaughters, Addison and Ella. Every time I visit them, we always read books and go for walks together. So many beautiful things to view, learn, and talk about. This book is about our time at the pool.

About the Author

After more than forty successful years as a sales executive for a major insurance company, Kenneth Francis decided it was time to retire. Once he retired, he thought of something to do. He enjoyed the most important thing in life—family.

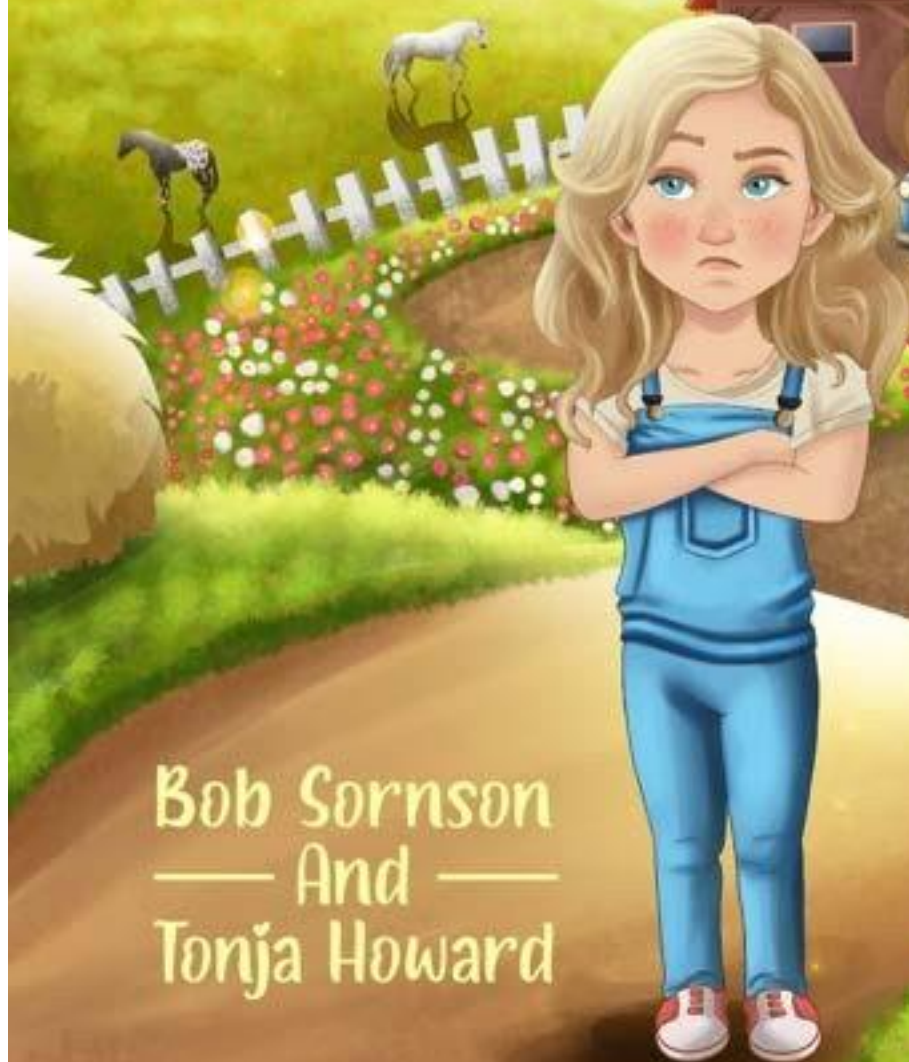

He loves visiting with his two beautiful granddaughters, Addison and Ella, most of all. Every time after visiting with them, he starts missing them, and they start missing him. All they talk about is when they are going to get together again.

The idea hit him to start writing stories about special moments he shared with his granddaughters. What better way to cherish their times reading books and talking together on their walks? He thought the girls would like to read books where they were in and part of the story.

About the Author

Edward Rieger was born in Kansas City, Missouri, in 1960. He grew up as one of nine children to a single parent who struggled with alcoholism. He has sixty-three years of direct knowledge and experience of how mental illness is ingrained in children from their mentally ill parents. He shares, like never before, how the mentally ill's upbringing is one of the biggest factors in trying to figure out why they think and behave the way they do. His experiences will shed a new way of evaluating the psychological makeup of the person you are trying to create a possible lifelong relationship with.

Book Summary

As Macaroni matures and grows older, she begins to care very much about people and how they treat each other. She believes that people should treat all others with respect and kindness and love. She truly sees this as a major change in life, and she believes that dogs naturally achieve this outcome by the way that they behave and treat humans. This is why Macaroni would very much love to have a dog as her birthday gift. She wants to begin to show people how very important this is to everyone.

As she begins her new relationship with her dog, she still has mysteries to solve and people to help in many ways. Please join her as she moves through her next adventure.

About the Book

Simon Ottenberg presents a collection of imagined tales based on actual events at Afkpo, an Igbo people from Southeastern Nigeria. He began writing these tales during the spring of the pandemic of 2022, and finished them in the fall of the same year.

A heat wave actually occurred there. There were various reactions to it, and an oracle was consulted over it. A man from the countryside actually existed, who trained and worked in the city, and then returned to rejuvenate his rural village of birth. A boy illegally forced his way into the initiation of the village secret society.

About the Author

Simon Ottenberg, a retired University of Washington anthropologist, wrote four books and numerous articles on the traditional life of an Igbo group in southeastern Nigeria--their social groupings, family life, masquerades, and boys' growing up. He authored a history of the Igbo town of Abakaliki from precolonial times until 1960. He curated an exhibition on seven modern Igbo artists at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., and wrote a biography of the late modern Siena Leone artist, Olayinka Burney-Nichols. He co-edited a volume on African children's masquerades.

COVENANT BOOKS

In The Covenant of the Ark: A Prophetic Journey of Hope

by Judith Perrine Armour

Book Summary

A chronicle of a contemplative's mystical journey of finding a God who is as present to us today as he was in the time of Abraham. He is a God who listens, a God who speaks, and a God who heals. Could God be preparing us for the prophetic time that the prophet Joel spoke about when God will pour out his spirit on all humanity? "Your sons and daughters shall prophesy, your old people shall dream dreams, and your young people will see visions" (Joel 3:1-3).

This author experienced the voice of the Lord calling in the night. She heard his voice and was gifted with all of the gifts of the Holy Spirit: faith, wisdom, knowledge, prophecy, discernment, healing, tongues, interpretation of tongues, and miracles. As you are led through her life, you will see how the prophetic came to fulfillment through her lived experiences. The miracles she gives witness to will speak to a God who is alive and dwells among us. He is the Lord who will speak to our times and our culture. God leaves us with a message of his all-consuming, unconditional love and a hope for all mankind.

BOOK SUMMARY

The Inner Light and World Religions is a scientific detective story that reveals how meditation-induced visions of light have shaped the world's religions. The author is a professional medical writer who interweaves accounts of his personal experiences and his neurological analysis of causal mechanisms with colorful threads drawn from the history of religions, from biographies of influential mystics, and from psychological studies documenting the links between child trauma, adult dissociation, and the propensity to induce visions. This is a book that celebrates the diversity of many different belief systems, past and present, while emphasizing the unifying principle that brings us all together—the visions of an inner, otherworldly light that have inspired seekers throughout the ages.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Philip T. Nicholson is a professional medical writer whose research on the neural correlates of meditation-induced light visions has been published in academic journals and medical journals, including The Journal of Neuropsychiatry and Clinical Neuroscience, Medical Hypotheses, and The Electronic Journal of Vedic Studies. He holds academic degrees from Princeton (A.B., Philosophy), from Stanford Law (J.D., Program in Law and Psychiatry), and from the Harvard School of Public Health (M.S.). ABOUT THE BOOK

This coffee table book chronicles the social history of Fremantle and its hotels from 1829 to 1929. The first of a trilogy, Book One covers the early Fremantle hotels from 1829 to 1856, which marked the dawn of Western Australia's hotel industry. While hotels are its primary focus, the book further examines the evolution of Fremantle from being a small fishing village to a premier international city. It also describes how the early hotels shaped the culture and appearance of Fremantle today.

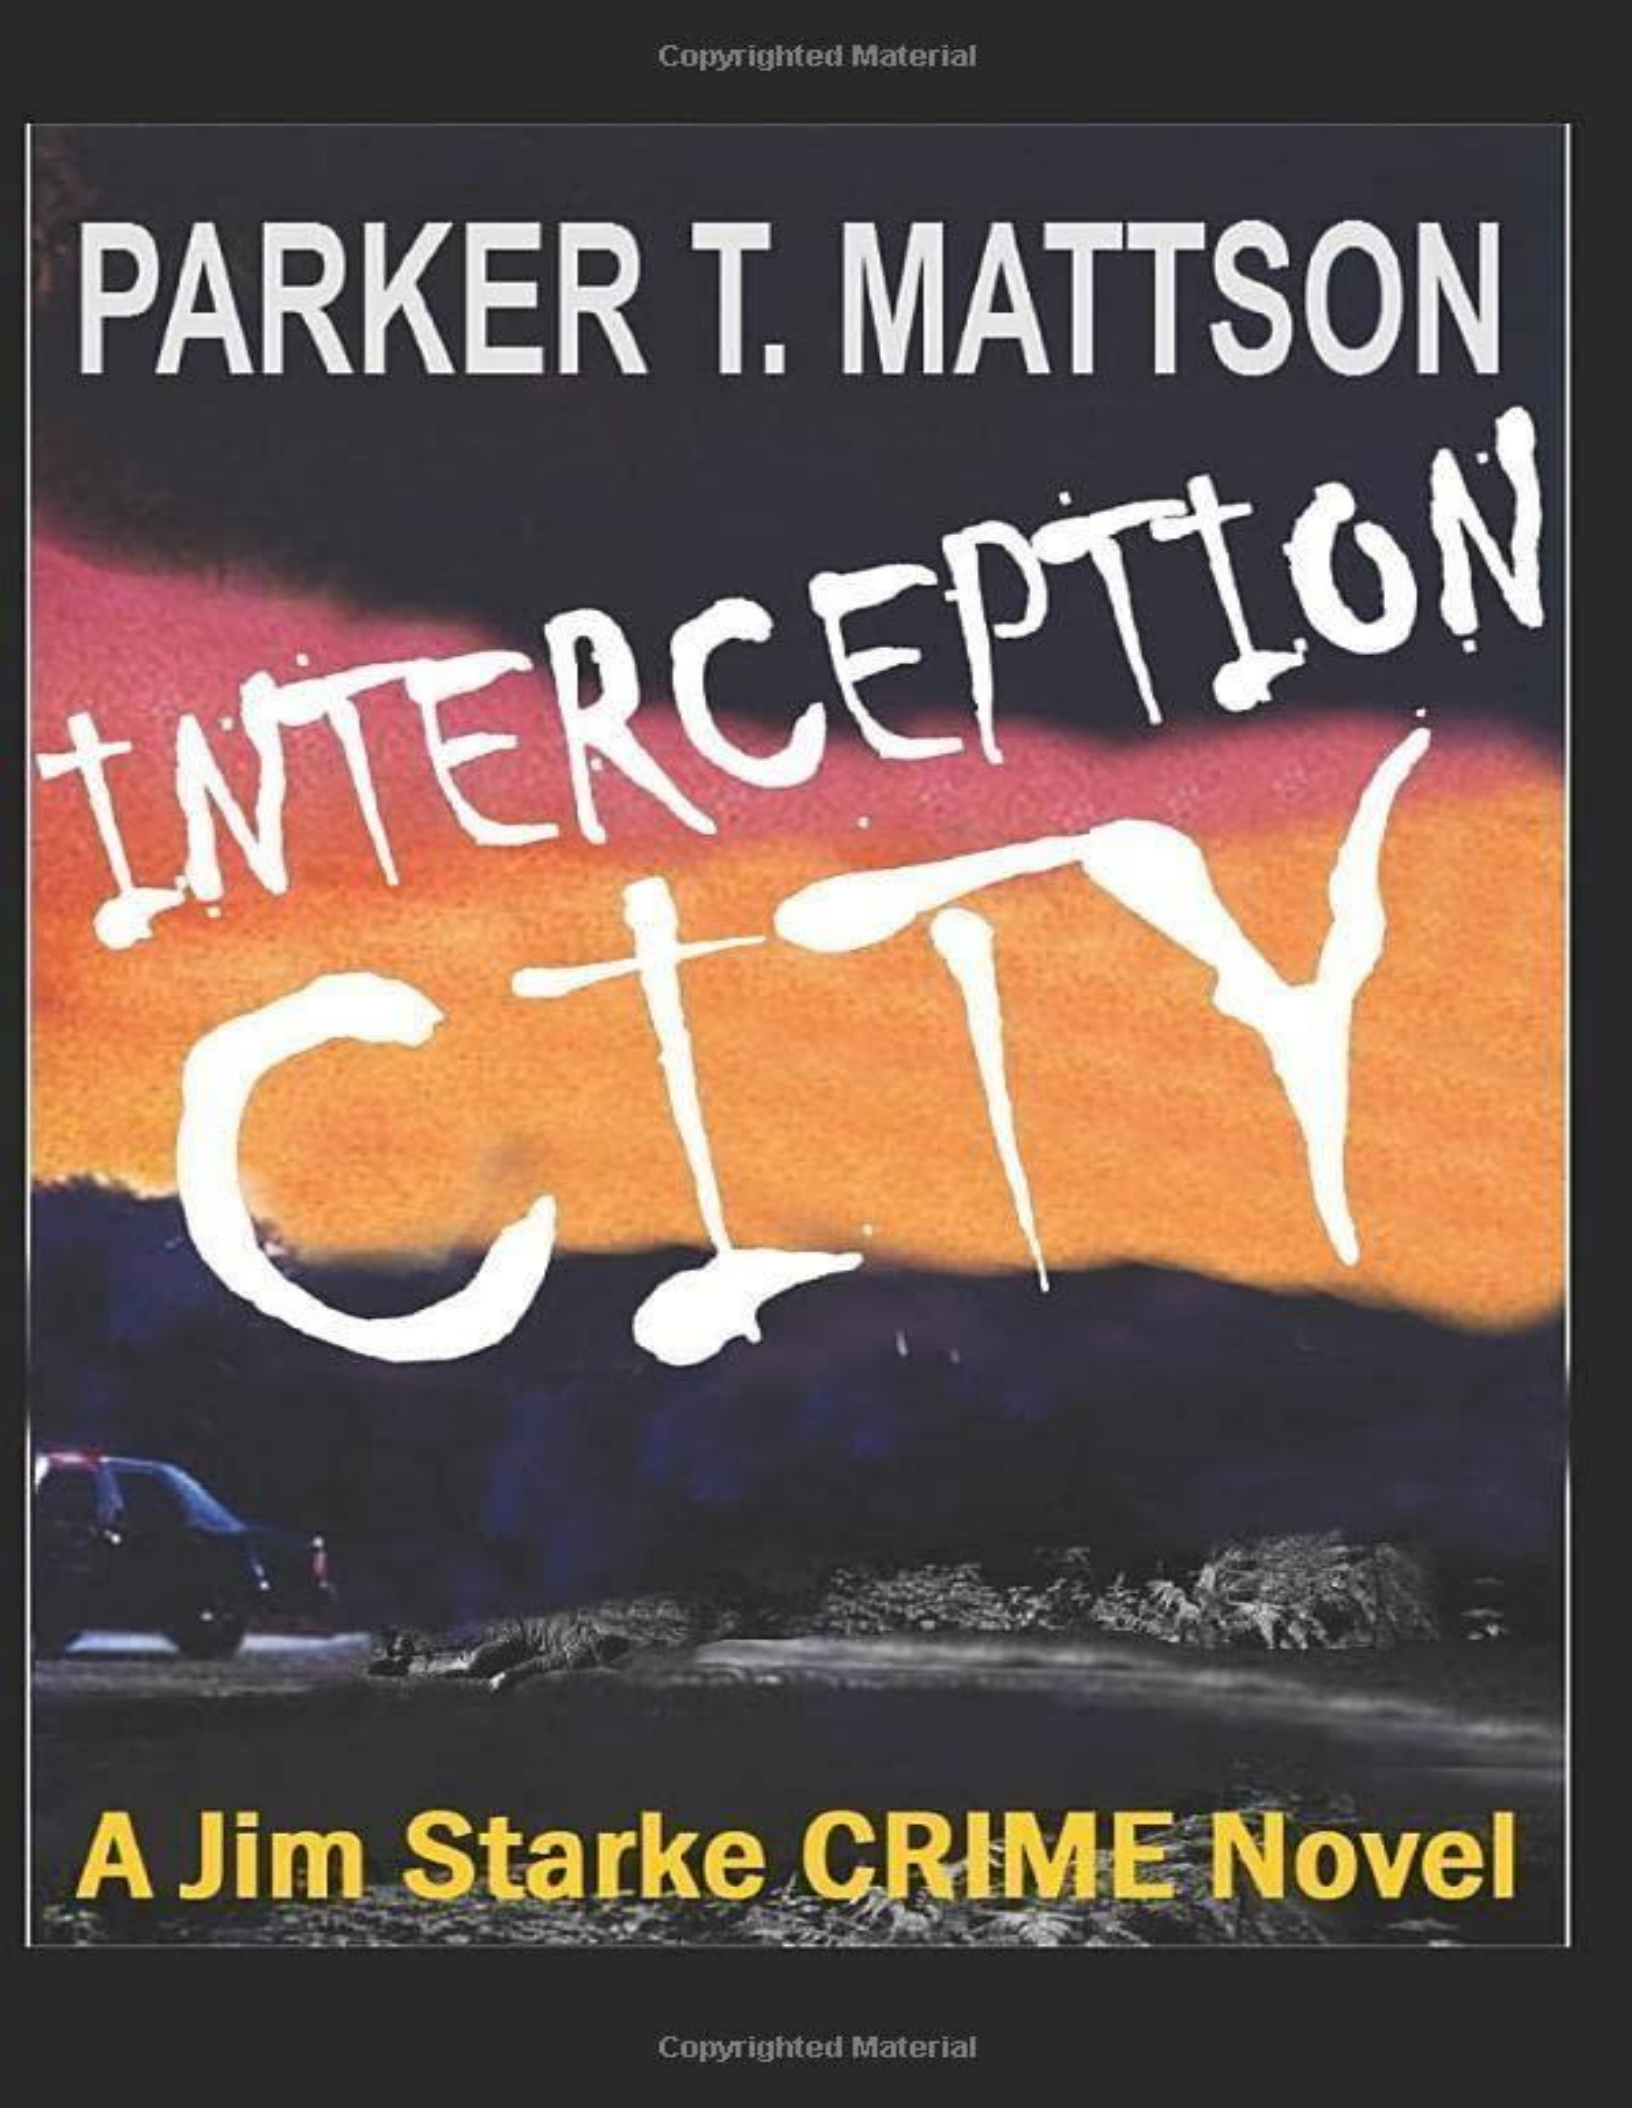

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Allen Graham is a lifelong resident of Fremantle, having been born and raised in Beaconsfield. He was a councillor with the City of Fremantle during the heady days of the America's Cup, serving on the council between 1985 and 1990. Graham has been researching and writing about Fremantle's history for over 40 years with a particular focus on Fremantle's hotels. He has won the City of Fremantle's unpublished history award on three occasions and has had a number of essays on Fremantle's history published in Fremantle Studies, the journal of the Fremantle History Society. Graham has been a long standing member of the Fremantle History Society and has served as a committee person, vice president and president of the Society. Since retiring, Graham has used his knowledge of Fremantle's history to conduct walking tours of Fremantle. Visit www.fremantlehistorywalkingtour.com.au for more information.

The background of the book cover is a dark, atmospheric photograph. It shows a dark, silhouetted landscape with a road or path leading into the distance. On the left, a dark car is partially visible. The sky is a mix of dark blue and black, with a large, bright orange and red glow that suggests a sunset or a fire. The title 'INTERCEPTION CITY' is written in large, white, hand-painted letters across the middle of the image.

Book Summary

Jacob the Angel is about an angel that lives at a childcare facility. He spends his time watching over and protecting the children. He flies around from room to room and on the playground, watching over the little ones in his care and making sure they stay safe. In this book Jacob protects the children as they need to spend the night because of a snowstorm that has closed down the town. The children enjoy a slumber party at school, and Jacob finally gets to have guests spend the night.

About the Author

Penny Gautier, the author of Jacob the Angel, and her husband Derald are the owners of Jacob Academy, a childcare facility in Lakewood, Colorado. Penny has always wanted to write a children's book; and given the opportunity, she decided to write about an angel, her nephew, that keeps the children safe each day. Jacob entered the gates of heaven as a boy, and his aunt and uncle named their childcare facility using his name as a remembrance of his life. Penny has used the names of her children and nieces and nephews to fill the experiences in this book with Jacob's cousins.

Penny and her family live in Golden, Colorado. Derald, her husband, is the senior pastor of Belmar Church in Lakewood. Together, through the church and their childcare facilities, they are spreading the love of Christ throughout the community of Lakewood.

The educated public have long been regaled with “the mysteries of quantum physics”, which enshroud far-flung claims, e.g. that the moon does not exist when we are not looking at it. These mysteries rely on a stunning proposition of quantum theory arising in the 1960s and contested through the subsequent sixty years: that the probabilities deriving from it defy a mathematical inequality known as Bell’s inequality. John Bell himself, who formulated the problem, was puzzled by this result and mooted that in time we would discover what was wrong with this characterisation of the matter.

In this book, Frank Lad claims to have identified the mathematical error that gives rise to the misunderstanding, and presents it in a form that is accessible to the generally educated reader, especially those familiar with university-level ideas of functions of several variables and the concepts of linear algebra. Understanding of complete mathematical detail is not required for appreciation. Largely ignored and dismissed by the scientific community of professional physicists, here is the background to the result, and the resolution to the controversy.

Birth is made out to be the happiest time of your life. But what happens if you have a difficult pregnancy, a traumatic birth, your baby is fussy, or just won't go to sleep? Are you meant to bond with your baby straight away? Sometimes, the experience of being a new mum sucks. You've been sleep-deprived for weeks or months, and post-natal depression can creep up and take over. If you've found yourself struggling to cope, you're not the only one. Other women have had similar thoughts and feelings to you, no matter how extreme they seem.

LOOKING INTO THE EYE OF GRIEF: AN ILLUSTRATIVE VIEW OF THE ESSENCE OF GRIEF

Marlene A. Enderlein

Book Summary: Although there is universality in loss, each person will experience it in a unique way. Expressing feelings through art, rather than through words, aids in the healing process. Illustrations made by bereaved individuals demonstrate the uniqueness of grief and how the unconscious mind can offer insight, hope, and healing for those suffering the loss of a loved one.

Marketing and Distribution: The book has been announced to multiple hospice organizations in the San Francisco Bay Area, social workers, and the bereaved community. It is also listed as a resource on two major international grief support organization websites. The book is available for distribution through Ingram.

About the author: Marlene Enderlein's professional career began in cardiology, working with infants and children born with congenital heart disease. She authored and co-authored numerous medical journal articles and chapters in textbooks that are standards today. She retired after 33 years. Following numerous personal losses, she pursued her master's degree in mental health and wellness with a specialty in grief and bereavement and is currently a bereavement counselor with hospice. She enjoys gardening, reading, and all that nature has to offer in the San Francisco Bay area.

Book Summary

CHOOSE TO BE A WINNER, TODAY!

Everyone wants to be a winner in life. But winning doesn't just happen. This book will help you discover how to MAKE WINNING HAPPEN in your life. Being a winner is a matter of choice not chance.

This spiritual book looks at being a winner from a Christian perspective. However, have you wondered what God says about winning? Does winning really matter to Him? These and other related questions will be answered in this inspirational book. The scriptural foundations and biblical lessons provide clear insight into how we can Make Winning Happen in our lives. Everyone wants to be a winner in life, however, it is a matter of choice.

YOU CAN BE A WINNER!

MAKE THAT STEP TODAY!!!

About the Author

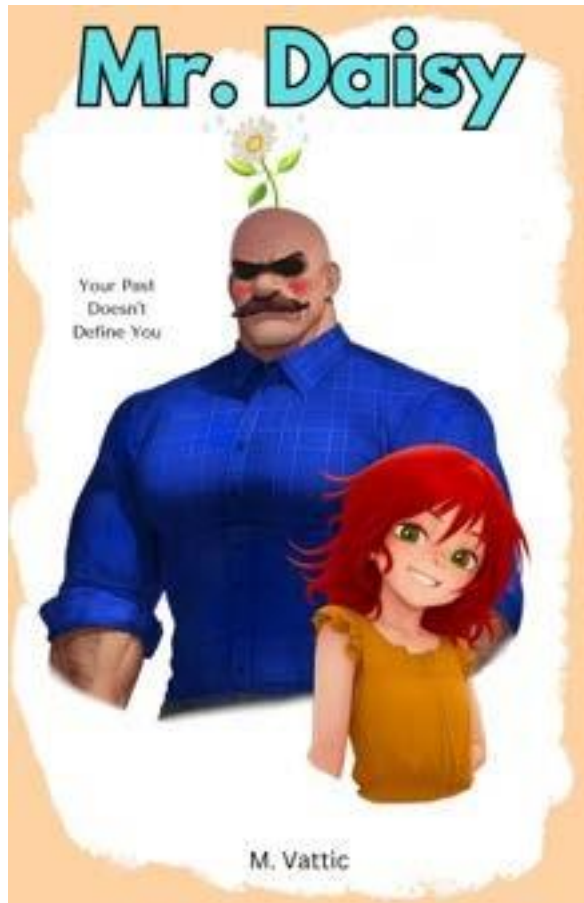

Philip Jordan is a first-time Christian author. He is a former high school football player and coach. He worked for the Department of Corrections Juvenile Division and is retired from Emergency Mental Health and Behavioral Services. He has served as a mentor for at-risk youths and was an adjunct professor at Virginia Union University. He also has taught adult Sunday school classes.

Philip Jordan shares his insights about winning in life based upon his personal experiences, his religious upbringing, and a prayerful study of God's written Word (the Holy Bible). He wants you to know that we already have the victory that lasts a lifetime and beyond, if we only make the choice to accept God's gift and serve Him!

Make Winning Happen: Be a Difference Maker is intended to inspire, challenge, comfort, and give people hope as they live their daily lives.

Winning is a matter of choice, not chance.

Make winning happen today!

Book Summary

This is an account of the Lord God calling me into the ministry, preparing me, and sending me to the Philippine Islands as a missionary.

While I was preparing to go, He told me not to become associated with any other ministry. That meant I would be totally on my own.

After that, He told me not to raise any financial support, but to trust Him, and He would supply all of my needs. Because I was not associated with anyone else, I had to go to the Philippines on a tourist visa and could, therefore, not do anything there to support myself or my ministry.

Because of these restrictions, I was totally dependent on the Lord for everything. When He showed me that He had sent out the twelve apostles in the same way, I was very encouraged.

He [Jesus] commanded them to take nothing for the journey except a staff—no bag, no bread, no copper in their money belts. (Mark 6:8)

He sent out the seventy the same way: "After these things the Lord appointed seventy others also, saying to them, 'Carry neither money bag, knapsack, nor sandals; and greet no one on the road.'" (Luke 10:1a, 4)

This book is an account of the first eight years of that assignment and how the Lord God Almighty became my friend and companion as we walked together, talked together, and worked together and of His provision as He and I ministered His Gospel.

About the Author

The author always makes it his aim to be well pleasing to God. The Heavenly Father said of the Lord Jesus Christ, "This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased" (Matthew 3:17). Before Jesus began His ministry, He was beloved and well pleasing to God.

Nicked unfurls a riveting tale of high-stakes art theft, where the worlds of crime and culture collide. A Parisian van, laden with precious fine art destined for a London sale, falls prey to a cunning heist. Amidst this chaos, Alistair, a casual holidaymaker, finds himself thrust into the heart of the intrigue.

Urged to chase the thieves, his pursuit catapults him across the Channel, back to France.

Set predominantly in the picturesque southwest of France, Nicked invites readers to explore the enchanting ambience of a 14th-century village perched atop a hill, a locale unwittingly entwined in the heist. By a twist of fate, this village, steeped in history and mystery, is where Alistair owns a summer retreat.

As the narrative weaves through the cobbled streets and ancient architecture, suspense builds: will the art thieves' paths cross with that of Alistair, the impromptu investigator? Nicked masterfully combines the allure of a rustic French village with the adrenaline of a crime thriller, keeping readers on the edge of their seats as they ponder whether the art and its pursuer will converge in this unexpected haven.

NO ONE IS GOOD EXCEPT GOD ALONE

*God's Ultimatum for the Church to Pierce through Darkness

Hanh Nguyen

ARE YOU READY FOR JESUS' SECOND COMING?
HOW DO YOU KNOW?

what good is good enough?

01. Mark 10:17
Success and earthly virtue cannot guarantee access to the Kingdom

The reason people want to be good and try hard to do good is fundamentally because of the hope of going to heaven. Yet, regardless of how successful they are, they still don't have the confidence of reaching that goal.

Regardless of how good man try to live by, there is no match with the Goodness of God, and they cannot impress God with their good deeds. True goodness is not in the heart of man but in the essence of God.

03. God's Goodness vs.
Man's goodness

Humanism represents self-reliance, self-will, self-sufficiency and relies on self-effort. Yet, there is no man power that can break the gate of heaven to invade the Kingdom of God. But God can make man as good as He is to qualify them for access to His Kingdom.

05. How to grow in the Goodness of God

Only God's Goodness can conquer the world. We are called to submit ourselves to God so that His Goodness freely flows to us and through us in every aspect of our lives to minister to the needy world.

07. Matthew 5:13-16

Focus on the Goodness of God - Philippians 4:8

09. Isaiah 60:1-2
The call for the church

In the Goodness of God, He has created you to be a treasure to His creation. Through you the world will get to know God's Goodness, experience His Goodness and enjoy His Goodness. When God's Goodness wins you, you will win the world with the Goodness of God.

02. Mark 10:18
The plain truth is: No one is good except God alone.

God's Goodness is pure, perfect and life-giving. God's Goodness created the Tree of Life. Man's goodness, or humanism, always accompanies with evil because it comes from the agreement between man and God's enemy as man ate the fruit from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.

04. Mark 10:27
All things are possible with God

We cannot cook up the Goodness of God. We cannot conjure the Goodness of God. We can only receive the Goodness of God passively by actively opening up ourselves through praying in the Spirit so that our spirits can resonate with the heavenly frequency of Love.

06. Philippians 2:15
We are called to conquer the world with God's Goodness

There is no way that we can make ourselves good and make anybody else good. That is not our calling. Our calling is not to show the world how good we are by pleasing people, but rather, our calling is to show the world how good God is to lead them to Him.

08. God's Goodness in the practical life

Jesus will not come to rescue a broken, stricken, shaken, struggled church, but He will come for a glorious, victorious church who shines His Light to the dark world.

10. Ephesians 2:10
God's Goodness in the reality of your life

Book Summary

Today's economy has many people feeling trapped, like they're in a box they can't escape. It's hard to move ahead when you feel the stress of being squeezed in all directions. This book is designed to help you break out of the box of your current circumstances into a balanced and more successful life.

This is a reflection of my own experiences born of the frustration of unemployment, endless job searches, and the oppression of inflation. I spent over eighteen months looking for my next full-time job after the company that I worked for downsized and moved to the other side of the country. Through the skills that I developed during my unemployment, I created my dream job. I also learned how to manage money in unique and creative ways. Through this book, I hope to help relieve the pressure that many people are currently feeling today.

At age six, I became legally handicapped due to a life-threatening car accident. In spite of that, I became an honors student and graduated from college. My mom died of cancer when I was nineteen. When I was forty, I lost my stepmom; grandmother; great-aunt, my mom's sister; and a nineteen-year-old nephew within a four-month time frame and a brother a few months later. I was incredibly overwhelmed with these losses.

When I met my mentor over twenty years ago and told him all that had happened, he looked at me and smiled and said, "You're a survivor!"

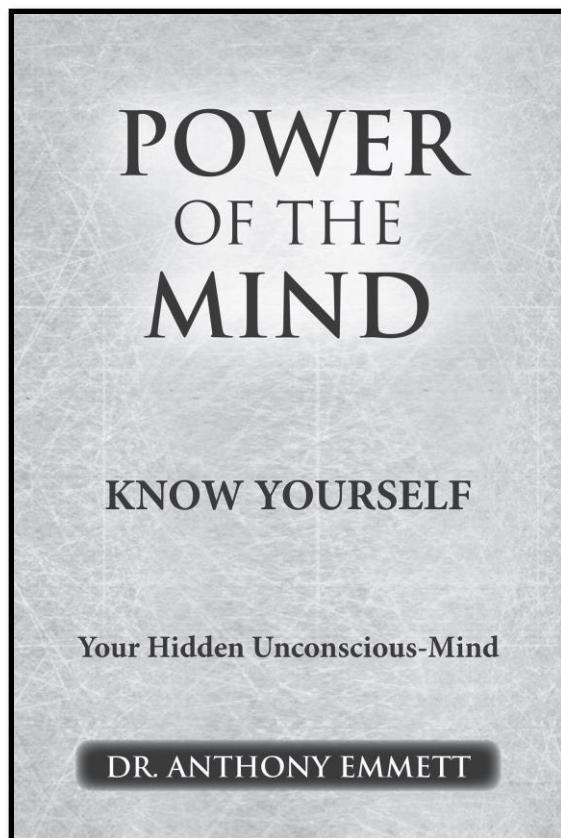

I told him that I wanted to do more than survive; I wanted to live!

This book shares some of the tools that I acquired that have allowed me to live in spite of the things that have been thrown across my path. I believe that it can help others as well.

About the Author

Sandy Jacobson thought she had finally found her dream job. After six months with that company, they down-sized, and moved to the East Coast. She spent the next eighteen months fruitlessly sending out resumes for five hours each day, looking for her next fulltime job.

ABOUT THE BOOK

There exists in each of us an unknown potential which lies in the Unconscious-mind. Understanding the multilayered nature of human Consciousness helps us to understand the meaning of human life.

Power of the Mind Know Yourself is about an analysis of our Consciousness into its working layers and energy levels, so that we can see how to use this wonderful mechanism we are gifted with.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr. Anthony Emmett was a doctor and a surgeon for many years. He had spent his first 60 years studying medicine, practicing reconstructive plastic surgery, teaching, writing and researching in hospitals, the university, and in his practice, over many years; finally as clinical professor. After retiring from active surgical practice in his 60's, he was then studying philosophy and art, looking at their impact on life and on healing, in a broader sense.

Prairie

by Kittredge McKee

Book Summary

Frankie Harding finds herself alone on the vast prairie of the Nebraska Territory in 1863. With the loss of her family to fever along the trail West, ten-year-old Frankie is faced with the decisions and choices of an adult. With her only other options of turning back East, to a life and home that no longer exist, or waiting by the trail for some unknown person or family to take her in, Frankie chooses to make her own way West.

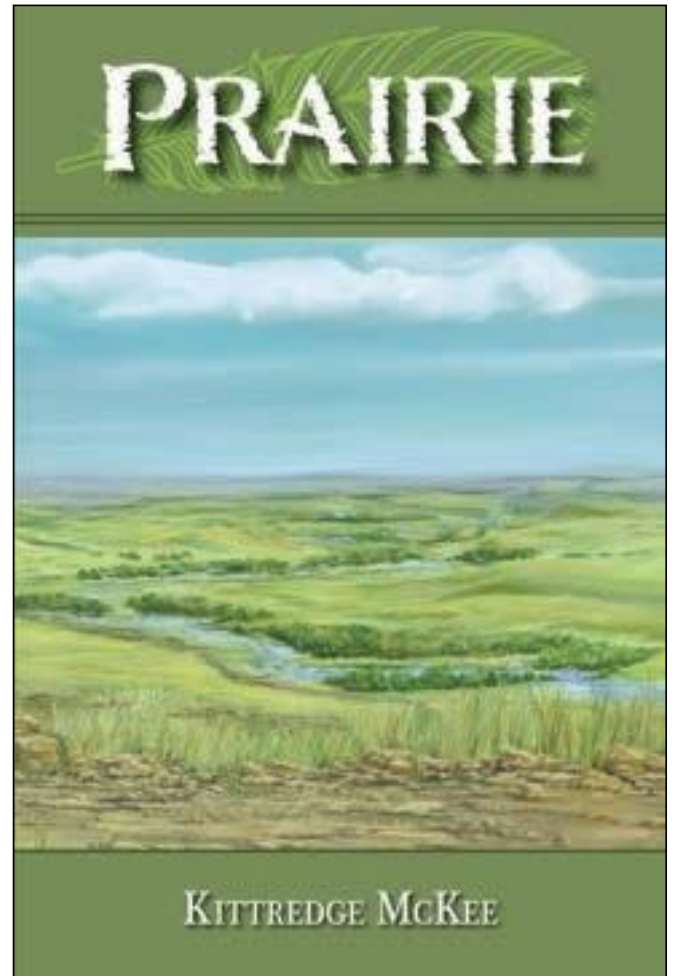

Fully aware that she has no idea of what to expect, Frankie learns that the journey across the prairie is the same for her as anyone else; it's about taking one step at a time on the prairie, learning one lesson at a time. She knows that, along with a team of horses and a wagon filled with all she has left in life, it's her own character and passion that will take her to the homestead that waits for her, somewhere out on the vast prairie.

This is Frankie's story about traveling home, about going the distance and finding something permanent, both inside herself and across the prairie. It's a story about loving life, about holding onto life, and about building a life. Ultimately, it is a hero's journey...a journey of the heart and the spirit.

Remember the Sabbath

by Brenson Kingren

Book Summary

The church that is supposed to be following the Word of God has fallen into the trap of the devil to keep the commandments of men, traditions of men, and doctrines of demons. This writing will expose some of those lies and guide the reader into truth by the scriptures of the Living God and the commandments of God. Pray for God to open your heart, mind, soul, and spirit to Him, leading you into the truth of His word and obedience to Him, the Great I am.

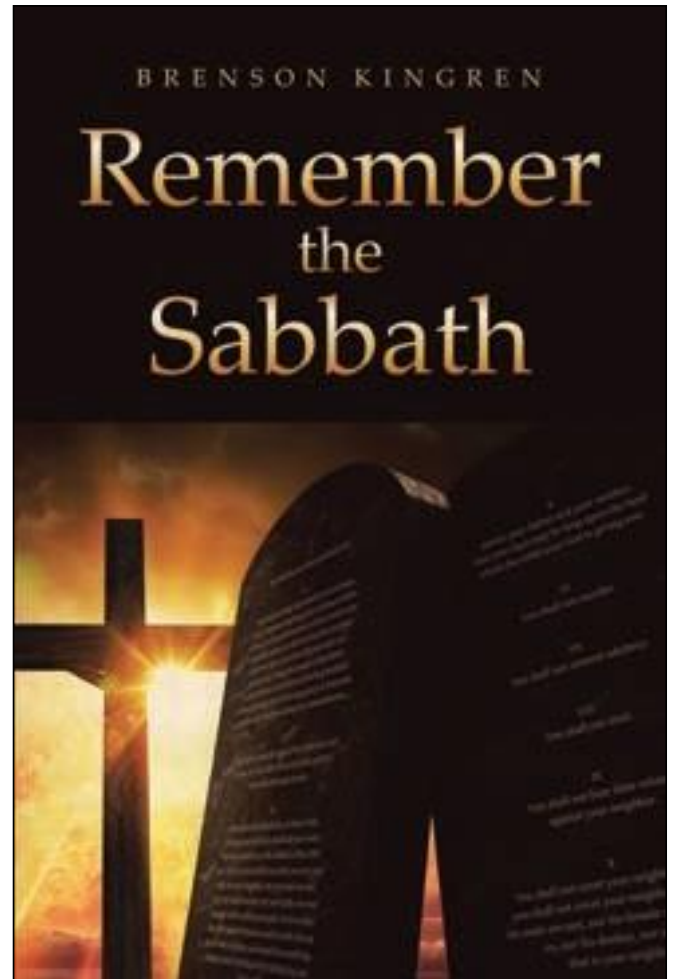

Marketing & Distribution

The marketing and publicity campaign for "Remember the Sabbath" is being undertaken by the Covenant Books marketing department. Promotion of the book includes the dissemination and delivery of a high volume of press releases, various Twitter and Facebook postings, and assorted online advertising campaigns.

"Remember the Sabbath" is available for wholesale order through the Ingram Content Network.

About the Author

Brenson Kingren is a lay preacher and follower of Jesus of Nazareth in the Way. He has, like most people, struggles in life and has blessings and curses due to choices made in life along the way. In his sixties now, Brenson has a better part of life behind him and is looking to that glorious day of the Lord. Many ups and downs in life and lessons learned has opened his mind and his heart up more and more to the leading of God, of which this book is a result. Therefore, this book is to the glory of God and no other, because the author feels that it was a gift from God for His glory to turn people from error back to His ways, commandments, and blessings.

Book Summary

While other Iranian girls of the early twentieth century cook, sew, and hope for marriage, Gohar climbs trees, reads books, plays tar, and dreams of escaping her forsaken desert town. But when her forbidden correspondence with a non-Muslim boy is discovered, fear of banishment forces the fatherless Gohar to welcome the protection of Saleh Mirza, a powerful nobleman. At 14, she marries his choice of husband, a 55-year-old politician—expecting to enter her marital home in a white chador and leave it in a white shroud.

But fate takes her to Tehran, where she is dazzled by the electric lights and gramophones but appalled by the misery, poverty, corruption, and foreign meddling. Endangering her life and marriage, she joins the reformists while secretly idolizing Aslan, a mysterious Russian allied with the Iranian nationalists.

Then Russia invades northern Iran, and the country erupts. In the chaos of war, does a married Iranian Muslim have a future with a Russian Christian hunted by his own government? Or does their story, like many in Iran, end in blood and tear?

Silenced Whispers tells the story of an Iranian woman's battle for freedom—hers and her country's—and love amid profound social change and imperial power grabs. Vividly portraying life in Iran at the dawn of the twentieth century, the book is inspired by the author's upbringing in an Azeri family in Tehran and her Russian great-grandfather.

Help Your Patrons Achieve Their Financial Goals

Don't Wait to TAP YOUR ASSETS

In 2020, REAL ESTATE GHOSTWRITER and retired professor David Demers was in a financial pickle.

A recent divorce meant he was now paying all of the bills for himself and his daughter, who was in college. His Social Security check and ghostwriting income weren't enough to cover all expenses. So, at age 67, he tapped his assets (borrowed on the equity in his home), purchased a condo to live in, and began leasing his modest Phoenix home through Airbnb and Vrbo.

A year later his financial problem was solved.

His rental home was generating more than $43,000 in annual profits.

In Tap Your Assets, Dr. Dave shows you how to purchase a house for as little as 3.5% down and convert that or your existing home into a short- or long-term rental that can generate $50,000 or more a year in profits.*

Tap Your Assets also will show you how to

- accurately estimate profits before you make a decision to buy
- create a limited liability company to protect your assets
- post your property on Airbnb and Vrbo or Zillow
- maintain your property and keep 5-star ratings rolling in
- calculate interest and depreciation savings, and do your taxes

Dr. David Demers ("Dr. Dave") worked as a newspaper reporter, market researcher, and journalism/business media sociology professor before retiring and buying the first rental property. He is author of nearly two dozen academic, trade, and ghostwritten books and has won many writing, research and free speech awards.

*A short-term rental produces six times more profits than stocks and twice as much as a long-term rental (see book cover).

In a harrowing story of lost innocence and shattered identities, two young lives are swept up in a storm of calamity and betrayal. An Iraqi child, ripped from the warm embrace of his family, finds himself in the clutches of strangers in a foreign country. While the boy's desperate family searches tirelessly for their beloved son, the kidnappers weave a web of lies to erase his past, forging a cruel destiny that will test the bonds of fraternity and love.

Against a backdrop of global unrest, the stolen child and his unexpected natural brother try to forge their own paths, tied by a deep friendship, in a world torn apart by violence and deceit. From the uncontrollable violence in Afghanistan to the turbulent waters of the Euphrates, the destiny breaks the sky with a story of love between two who would never imagine loving each other. Among the rubble, death and destruction, the deepest, most real and sincere love story is born. A love rooted in the soul and deep in the heart. Love that glorifies life and means death; the threads of family, love and loyalty will be stretched to the breaking point.

Tears on the Euphrates delves into the profound impact of family and identity amid the harsh realities of a world at war, intertwining the fates of two boys with the turbulent geopolitics that define the divide between East and West. Through their eyes, we explore the moving and unyielding search for truth, belonging, and redemption in a world yearning for hope.

THE ABALONE UKULELE

A Tale of Far Eastern Intrigue

By R. L. Crossland

The Abalone Ukulele: A Tale of Far Eastern Intrigue is an historical novel set in 1913 Shanghai, where four cultures are about to collide: China, Korea, Japan, and the US. The point of collision is three tons of Japanese gold ingots meant to undermine an already collapsing China.

Three ordinary men, a disgraced Korean tribute courier, a bookish naval officer, and a polyglot third-class quartermaster realize they must foil Japanese subversion and — with sub rosa Asiatic Station support — hijack that gold to finance a Korean insurrection. Three ordinary women complicate, and complement, their efforts: an enigmatic changsan courtesan, a feisty Down East consular clerk, and a clever Chinese farm-girl.

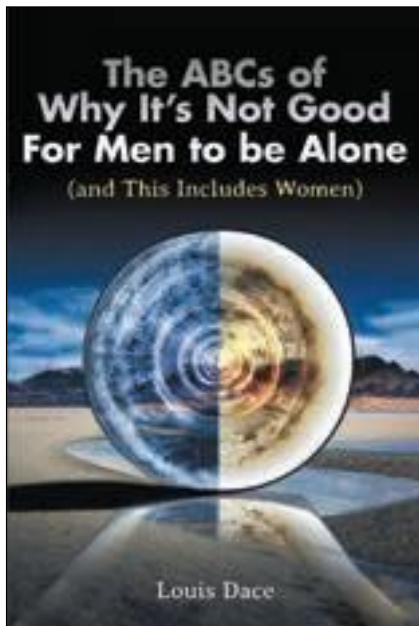

It is a tale that wends through the outskirts of Peking to the Yukon River; from the San Francisco waterfront to a naval landing party isolated on a Woosung battlefield; from ships of the US Asiatic Fleet moored on Battleship Row to a junk on the Yangtze; and from the Korean gold mines of Unsan to a coaling quay in Shanghai. Soon a foreign intelligence service, a revolutionary army, and two Chinese triads converge on a nation's ransom in gold.

Book Summary

The ABCs of Why It's Not Good for Men to Be Alone (And This Includes Women) is a book that explores the impact of isolation on individuals' mental and physical health. The book argues that social connections and social support are essential for promoting overall well-being and that individuals who lack social connections may be at risk for a range of negative health outcomes.

Drawing on a wide range of research and personal anecdotes, the book makes the case for the importance of building and maintaining strong social networks. It highlights the various ways social connections can promote mental and physical health, including reducing stress, improving mood, promoting healthy behaviors, and enhancing immune function.

The book also explores the negative impacts of isolation on individuals' health, including increased risk of chronic diseases, decreased immune function, and poorer mental health outcomes, such as depression and anxiety. It argues that social isolation is a growing problem in modern society and that individuals must take steps to prioritize building and maintaining social connections in order to promote their overall health and well-being.

Overall, The ABCs of Why It's Not Good for Men to Be Alone (And This Includes Women) is a compelling and thought-provoking book that highlights the importance of social connections and social support for promoting health and well-being. It provides practical advice and actionable steps for individuals who are seeking to build and maintain strong social networks, and it makes a compelling case for why social connections are essential for a healthy and fulfilling life.

About the Author

As a father of an eight-year-old girl, Lawrence wanted to instill the belief that anything is possible. As such, going to different places like museums, libraries, and outdoor venues were a perfect backdrop to helping her understand that with imagination, anything is possible. The idea of going on "adventures" was born out of his need to keep the relationship with his daughter healthy and open. What started as a hashtag became his inspiration to create the characters of papa bear and li'l monkey. To him, she was his "li'l monkey," and to her, he was "papa bear."

Author Newton Duah Yeboah's new book "The Art of Waiting" reveals the journey that every person must go on in order to journey from birth to greatness.

Summary of the release

Recent release "The Art of Waiting" from Covenant Books author Newton Duah Yeboah is compelling and thought-provoking read aimed at enlightening readers to the importance of the waiting period between one's birth and their successes, and how this journey is meant for God to lift up his children so that they can become the best version of themselves.

Full release text

Newton Duah Yeboah, an accountant by profession, a husband, a father, and inspirational speaker, has completed his new book, "The Art of Waiting": an insightful read designed to help readers navigate the waiting period from their birth to their greatness, and learn how to use this waiting period to achieve success.

A student of the Word of God, author Newton Duah Yeboah believes every individual is a gift from God unto humanity. The author holds the belief that all people are unique in their various capacities, and with the right attitude of an individual and help from others, no one will fail in life. It is his vision to bring smile, hope, comfort, and the peace of God to as many as he will be able to touch. He also believes every vision is probable with God.

"Every product goes through a process," writes Yeboah. "The process of making a product is the waiting period for that product to shine. The waiting period is a dreadful phase that people try to avoid almost all the time, but the truth is, everybody must go through it. Gold goes through a process before it gains the beauty that we see. The pillars go through a process before they become strong and firm to be able to hold buildings. The process of waiting makes us great at the end.

"All of us are waiting for one thing or the other. You can only come out of your waiting period victoriously if you know how to deal with the deadly challenges in it. This book holds great ancient secrets from the Bible to teach you how to successfully come out of the abyss of waiting and soar above the skies with the eagles. I invite you to journey with me through the pages of this book for strength to deal with the challenges of waiting to birth your greatness."

Published by Covenant Books of Murrells Inlet, South Carolina, Newton Duah Yeboah's new book will bring to light some of the ways to handle oneself in their times of waiting before the manifestation of their dream. Drawing upon his own personal journey, Yeboah shares his writings in the hope of bringing comfort to those who may feel lost and alone to help them see the strength that God can provide in order to deal with the challenges of waiting for one's greatness.

Readers can purchase "The Art of Waiting" at bookstores everywhere, or online at the Apple iTunes store, Amazon or Barnes and Noble.

Book Summary

The betrayal between two birds is a novel by author Shawn M. Wells. The synopsis of the book is about a boy named Christopher Stephens, who is the protagonist of this story and is being sued by Malcolm X High School for holding illegal narcotics in his locker. Chris in the story believes that he is being framed for this incident because he has no memory of doing this heinous act, but he has no evidence to prove it wasn't him. Though the attorney who is representing Malcolm X High School has evidence to prove this, in this case, the judge and jury found Chris Stephens guilty.

The punishment that Chris would have to endure is ten years of juvenile detention. Throughout the story, he goes through life feeling like a criminal stuck in a hellhole, including being bullied by some delinquent kids and turning insane in the process. Chris gets introduced to a gang that breaks him out of a padded room. The gang consists of five boys. Their name are James, Sam, Cody, Marcus, and Doug. They all came up with a plan to break out of the detention center, and they are hoping that they can get Chris's help.

They are able to break him out of the padded room and get him to help, especially since they leaked information on who put him in this detention center in the first place. Chris realizes that he was framed by his closest friend, Greg. That makes Chris angry, to the point that he wants to exact revenge against Greg. Chris and his gang are able to break out, and they all go their separate ways. Chris accomplishes his goal in escaping the juvenile detention center, but now his next goal is to get even with his friend Greg, which would also lead to Chris's own death.

About the Author

Hey, how are you doing? I bet you're asking yourself, "Who is this guy, and why is he talking to me like we are having a conversation?" Well, I'm glad you asked because the person talking to you right now is the person who wrote this book you are reading. Hi, my name Shawn M. Wells, and I'm an author/writer who wrote the book named The Betrayal Between Two Birds.

A book that took way too long for me to finish, roughly about twenty-six years. Why did it take me twenty-six years? Well, let's just say I was dealing a lot of self-doubt, to the point that it made me give up on completing this story. I was dealing with the struggle of not having any confidence to pursue my passion because I feared the outcome of it being bad. In which, I kinda do believe it is, but I stop thinking that way, especially when my mom came in to support me on my decision on becoming an author. She made me feel that anyone can do this, and you do not have to care at what people say about it. To be honest, that is something I should already know, but of course like I said before: self-doubt and fearing the outcome can be big issues in your life.

Ruby and her family live in a storybook house where she dreams of planting a magical garden filled with colorful vegetables of different shapes and sizes. One odd little seed grows round and orange, quite different from the other vegetables. Ruby cares for all her garden, but the little orange ball stands out. Her tender kindness and acceptance show the other vegetables that gentle love can create a garden of friendship, as we treat others as we wish to be treated. Our differences are an opportunity to celebrate, accept, respect and learn from one another.

by Judith Perrine Armour

Book Summary

A chronicle of a contemplative's mystical journey of finding a God who is as present to us today as he was in the time of Abraham. He is a God who listens, a God who speaks, and a God who heals. Could God be preparing us for the prophetic time that the prophet Joel spoke about when God will pour out his spirit on all humanity? "Your sons and daughters shall prophesy, your old people shall dream dreams, and your young people will see visions" (Joel 3:1-3).

This author experienced the voice of the Lord calling in the night. She heard his voice and was gifted with all of the gifts of the Holy Spirit: faith, wisdom, knowledge, prophecy, discernment, healing, tongues, interpretation of tongues, and miracles. As you are led through her life, you will see how the prophetic came to fulfillment through her lived experiences. The miracles she gives witness to will speak to a God who is alive and dwells among us. He is the Lord who will speak to our times and our culture. God leaves us with a message of his all-consuming, unconditional love and a hope for all mankind.

Book Summary

An interpretation of God's love and human identity. Based on "A Course in Miracles" and the "Bible". With great love and joy during His new creation, God included the tree of life in the middle of the Garden of Eden. God's plan of perfect love was for Adam and Eve to deny the temptation to sin and never to learn about evil. Hence, they would be able to eat from the tree of life and inherit immortality to humankind.

In this book, we analyze how human life would have been if sin did not exist and how humans, through their divine perception, can see beyond their human perception. Dressed with their divine perception, they acquire the internal feeling of perfect peace, love, and joy. This is produced when the awareness of God is present in daily living.

Also analyzed is how the devil hates the children of God, thus offering them an evil perception, and how he creates personalized sins for each human being. Humans who are deceived want to be gods of their own will. Thus, they deny their love to God, to creation, and to humanity. By denying their love, unknowingly, they deny love to themselves. In this manner, the devil keeps humans in a state of anguish and depression with the goal to destroy them.

The devil's goal is for humans to commit suicide or wish the death of others. When humans decide to ask God for forgiveness of their sins and they reject their sinful will, then they recover their divine perception. As they remember God and accept God as their Creator, their spirits are filled with love. They then realize that the only responsibility of God's children is to forgive and love.

About the Author

Sandra Cuevas De Gracia was born January 31, 1966, in Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico. She is a Mexican author who uses an analytical method with which her goal is to create a better understanding of faith and the love of God.

The gripping tale of a less than innocent – yet far from guilty – man unfolds as fifty-year old Pat Donaldson returns to Ireland, the land of his birth. Framed and imprisoned for a crime he did not commit, he finds himself the unwitting victim of Dublin's most ruthless drug baron, a man who acts with impunity from behind a shield of propriety, all the while aided from a cabal of corruption.

All seems lost for Pat until one sole glimmering light of hope, in the form of a young and honest guardian of the law, breaks through the seemingly impenetrable mantle of fate to secretly champion his cause. Good deeds and intentions must combine perfectly with the finesse of legal machinations to triumph over what, on the face of it, seems to be the perfect stooge caught in the perfect set-up.

Book Summary

Long ago, God spoke to the prophets about the events to come. The Bible foretold the rise and fall of kings and kingdoms. The Scriptures foretold the coming of the Messiah.

Since Jesus came, many have believed in him. Now he is going to return. Jesus told his disciples the signs of his coming and what events would come to pass. These and other events are written in several books of the Bible.

Are we living in the end times? Many people have looked at the Scriptures. Scholars have pondered the writings. Sorting it all out can be a challenge. It's like putting a puzzle together.

Fortunately, there is a key that unlocks the mystery. Once a prophecy is fulfilled, it becomes history. Now the picture becomes easier to see when we look at the events in his story.

The great puzzle is about the prophecies and the events, winding up to the end of times and the return of Jesus Christ.

Book Summary

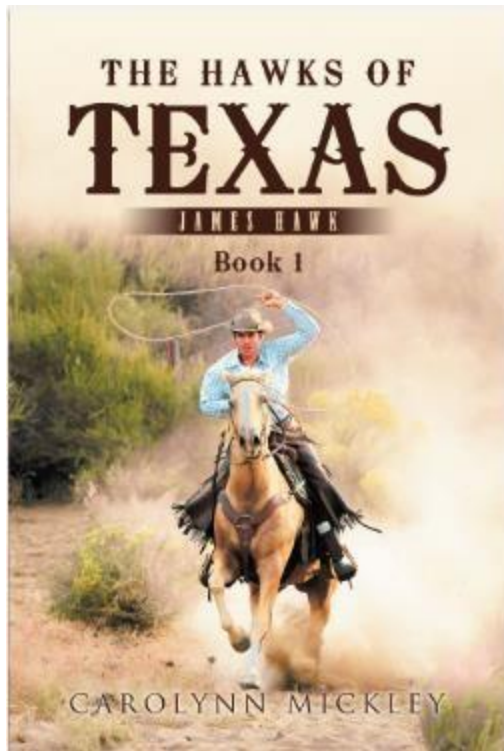

When billionaire, ranch and rodeo company owner J. D. Hawk went on his annual poker trip to Las Vegas with his three brothers, he never in his wildest dreams thought that his life would change so drastically. But when he accidentally but literally broke a hot-tempered redhead's nose, everything changed. He falls in love with her at first sight. She gives him the peace he has never felt, but he found out quickly his life would never be boring with her around. Now the only thing is, he has to figure out how to keep her from leaving him when his secrets keep biting him in the ass.

Cat Mackie was a beautiful redhead, past rodeo champion, and widowed rancher from the hills of Pennsylvania. Her dead husband came to her son in a dream, telling him to send her to Las Vegas for a convention. When she arrived at the Las Vegas airport, a hulk of a cowboy broke her nose, and her life was changed forever. She fell in love with the cowboy at first sight. She accepts his big family, which she knows half of them hate her, his six children, and hectic life. But would the secrets he keep from her send her back to the hills of Pennsylvania forever, or can she survive the new life that karma has dealt her?

The Highland Way

by Jeffrey McDonald

Book Summary

The West Highland Way in Scotland is a hiking dream for Jamie McDonald and his daughter, Niamh. His upcoming divorce has made it impossible for him to make ends meet on his inadequate pay as an armored truck driver. When his daughter dies in a car accident, his world is then torn apart. Disgusted, he wants to put an end to his suffering so he can feel more like a father and less like a failure. What would you do to fulfill your dead daughter's dream when you have nothing left to live for? He battles his emotions, mobsters, and a new love interest along the way and while running from them. Then he learns that the man his wife has moved on to is a crime boss by the name of Devan Drake. It's possible that this evil man was involved in his daughter's death and much more. Now ending his own suffering is less important than ending Drake's life, but for some reason, he just won't die! With the help of an old army buddy, he plans to remedy that and begin a new life in Texas, unless his past comes looking for him.

About the Author

Writing and telling stories have always been two of author Jeffrey McDonald's favorite things to do. In his lengthy career, he has held a variety of jobs, so the list would be lengthy. However, this provides him with a wealth of data to use in his stories. As a father, he often wonders what he would be willing to do in the event of a tragedy or crime against his family. Could he carry out the necessary action, regardless of whether it was morally or legally correct? Would he doubt his friends or his faith? Would he even care if he survived? This story was born out of pain and doubt, and as it has matured, it has shown him that love overcomes all obstacles.

John Wilkes felt blessed to work his family's ranch. He loved the feeling of accomplishment in raising livestock and nurturing the soil with crops. Now however, he was feeling as if all hope was lost in finding a new generation to take over.

He had lost both of his sons as potential heirs of the land. One son died in a riding accident and the other to a heated exchange of words and feelings many years ago. His widowed daughter-in-law helps him with the daily running of the ranch. Then a press release appears in the news: a new veterinary clinic to open in town and his son one of the vets running the facility. John's widowed daughter-in-law wants to see a reunion between father and son. When Justin returns home, feelings of remorse and hope arise. Can past hurts be resolved and new beginnings initiated as Stephanie and Justin will meet for the first time? Is the hope of a romance and will the family's ranch be secured?

Author Marie Malone gets her love of country living from being raised on a family farm. She currently resides with her husband on his family's centennial farm. Marie is a retired elementary school teacher. Her love of reading and books inspired her to start writing her own. In her free time, Marie enjoys reading, volunteering, and spending time with her twin grandsons.

Book Summary

This is the diary of the author's tumultuous journey from childhood to adulthood. The road she has traveled has been full of many unexpected twists, turns, detours, and cliff-hangers. Her trip itinerary has included poverty, sickness, molestation, rejection, domestic violence, betrayals, divorces, single-parenthood, being a first lady, and many other treks.

I believe that you will be captivated by the author's many excursions, some self-directed and some led by others, some good and some not so good. She experienced the contrast of being on a ship like Jonah running from God and being on a ship like Paul in the will of God. But they all drove her into the arms of the blessed Savior, who took what was meant to cause her life to be permanently shipwrecked and used it to make her more resilient for the voyage ahead.

I trust that you will be intrigued by how the author reveals the cycles in her life as she explains how the last became first, and the first became last, relating it to the scripture in Matthew 20:16. We all can relate with the alternating cycles in our lives of being last and then first, and first and then last. These seasons affect the just and the unjust, but they are weathered so much better with the Lord on our side. He works it all together for the good for those that love Him and are called according to His purpose (Romans 8:28).

The writer believes that the Lord led her to be transparent and to share her life experiences as a means to inspire, motivate, encourage, and challenge her readers to keep running the race that has been set before them, regardless of the obstacles they may encounter. Remember, many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the Lord will deliver us out of them all (Psalm 34:19).

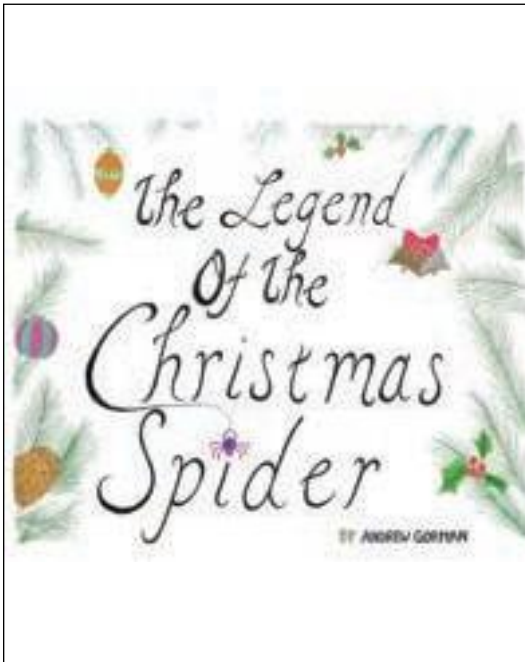

About the Author

While her mother went through nursing school and worked part-time cleaning homes, the author, as a young child, began to walk in her God-given gifts of helps and mercy as she helped her mother raise her two younger brothers and sister. While other children her age were out playing, she was washing diapers, making bottles, and taking care of siblings. Her mother often referred to her as their second mother.

Book Summary

Through the ages, there have been legends passed down explaining how things came to be. The Legend of the Christmas Spider is no exception. This book tells the story of how we might decorate our Christmas trees in this day and age. Though the origin of this folktale has been lost in time, it is very well known in Eastern Europe, especially Western Ukraine.

In that part of the world, it is widely held as good luck to find a spider or a spiderweb on the Christmas tree, so it comes as no surprise to find spider-shaped ornaments during the holiday season. Some homes still use artificial spider webs and apply it to their Christmas tree as a tradition.

About the Author

Andrew Gorman has had a passion for being creative since he was a toddler playing soldier with his army men in the sandbox. He realized he had a way with words while getting his BA in history at Colorado State University and continued to refine his creativity serving as an armor officer in the US Army and then writing papers to get his MA in history at Fort Hays State University.

His book, The Legend of the Christmas Spider, is the culmination of creativity and the Word of God as Andrew came back to the Lord Jesus and was born-again.

Andrew currently resides in Dallas where he spends his time growing in the Word of God, dancing with his girlfriend, and crafting Christmas spider ornaments.

RETURN OF A BELOVED BESTSELLER!

"It is now midnight, the witching hour, and I just finished reading The Last Valentine for the 6th time!
Yes, I cried my eyes out again, at the most beautiful love story I have ever read!
Everyone from 16 years old and up should read this story!" ~Helen Mulholland

With print, eBook, and audio book rights reverted to the author James Michael Pratt debuts this enhanced, Special 25th Anniversary Edition, *THE LOST VALENTINE.

Renamed from the original title, The Last Valentine (1998) for the Hallmark Hall of Fame World Premier event starring Betty White and Jennifer Love Hewitt in 2011, the bestselling novel has been re-edited to blend some movie elements with the story beloved by millions worldwide.

It became a New York Times and USA Today bestseller in 1998. Inspired by his mother's wait for his father to come home from World War II, the novel was called, "The love story America is taking to heart," by critics and, "A return ticket to Bridges of Madison County territory," by Publisher's Weekly.

Calling Pratt, "A master of moral fiction," (Booklist) The Last Valentine (1998) quickly placed among top reads in Literary Book Clubs, as Library Reader selections, and on bookstore bestseller lists nationwide. Readers as young as 11 and as aged as 90+ have shared how the story impacted their lives, as the fan mail continues for this timeless read.

"I gave an oral review of The Last Valentine just the other day at our book club and there wasn't a dry eye in the room by the time I finished. You sure do have a way of telling a love story! Don't change!" ~Georgina Tacconi

In 1868, William Standing, a man shadowed by his history, is forced into thievery, taking a majestic horse that is half mustang, half Arabian. He returns to an unspeakable tragedy: his sister's homestead ravaged by the Cheyenne Dog Soldiers, a tribe notorious for their fearsome warfare, leaving only the children taken captive. Driven by desperation, Standing tracks the Cheyenne, witnessing the aftermath of their raids.

In an unexpected confrontation, Standing proves his mettle, rescuing the children but surrendering the black horse to his adversaries. Just as hope dawns, the horse's original owners emerge, leading to Standing's harsh sentencing: twenty years in Georgia Penitentiary. His escape sparks a relentless search for the scattered children, now with distant kin. Yet the Buffalo Bill's Wild West show offers Standing a guise to move from town to town, yet the Buffalo Bill's pursuit is unyielding. His quest is a tumultuous ride through the heart of a man's indomitable spirit and the wild tapestry of the American frontier.

The Maze of Anything

by Martin Orlando

Book Summary

Have you ever wondered how certain stars in the sky line up with corresponding alignments on earth? This story will take you on that journey with Johnny, his family, and friends through The Maze of Anything.

Marketing & Distribution

The marketing and publicity campaign for “The Maze of Anything” is being undertaken by the Newman Springs Publishing marketing department. Promotion of the book includes the dissemination and delivery of a high volume of press releases, Facebook and Instagram postings, and assorted online advertising campaigns.

“The Maze of Anything” is available for wholesale order through the Ingram Content Network.

About the Author

Martin was born in a hospital in Rahway, New Jersey. He lived in Carteret, New Jersey, for only one year. His parents moved to Brick, New Jersey, for four years and then moved to Bayville, New Jersey, for five years. Martin went to elementary school in Bayville, New Jersey, part of the Berkeley township schools. Martin’s parents then moved to Colorado, where Martin attended middle school and high school in Pueblo, Colorado. Six years later, Martin moved back to New Jersey and attended college at Middlesex County College in Edison, New Jersey. Martin’s inspiration for writing this book came from those early teachers in his life back in the ’70s. Martin worked in the retail business for thirty-seven years—thirty-four years with one company—and retired from retail in 2022. Martin is now pursuing a career in writing books. Martin went to college for writing, and at fifty-five, his dreams are finally coming true.

THE PATH TO GOD'S PROMISE

by Ahuva Batya Scharff

SYNOPSIS

If God asked you to serve as a prophet to warn humankind about the impacts of climate change, would you? That's the dilemma put before Elinor Simentov, a woman reluctant to meet God's call.

As we are barraged month after month by once-in-a-lifetime storms, record-setting heat waves, shifting polar vortexes, horrendous floods, and decades long droughts, it's hard to continue to ignore the signs and omens. The Path to God's Promise combines dire warnings about climate change with the transformative power of prophetic experience. It asks whether or not it is too late for us to save ourselves and challenges us to live vastly different lives.

"An entreaty to take care of Earth—and each other."

—BOOKLIFE

"A climate call to action woven through with spiritualism and humanity." —LOVEREADING UK

A Story across the Continents!

Dayal Singh is brilliant, quirky, and has Asperger's. The son of parents trafficked from India to Africa after WWII, he knows he's Sikh, African, and has to stay in school as long as he has a scholarship. He also knows calculus is the evidence of God.

Life happens; Dayal becomes an accidental rockstar and an inventor. As he finishes his Ph.D., he reflects on his marriage and choices—fiercely resisting having his young family being assimilated into an overwhelming Christian ethos, and grappling with how to support human rights.

The Pleasure Seeker ranges from popular music of the 1970s through the 1990s, the music industry and sound engineering, to a fascinating inside-look into the world of “otherness” spanning continents, that examines long-held views versus hard-won integrity.

Trigger Warning:

The book contains erotic content and examinations of religion across cultures.

About the Author:

“This story is very current, and I’m trying to meet as many potential readers as possible. I’d be happy to come talk to a group of four or more in the metropolitan Chicago area, or do a zoom chat with your group.

I’m a retired dog groomer, a Returned Peace Corps Volunteer, and was raised as a Reform Jew. As it happens, my own spiritual journey has brought me to Sikh... but like Jews, Sikh don’t proselytize.”

Book Summary

Hard work and sacrifice do lead to success, but it comes with a price. Living in excess and three defining moments rocked Michael's world. Success could not fill the void in his life, not money, not homes, cars, food, alcohol, nor drugs. The first defining moment is a startling revelation of how living out of control is a path to destruction. This epiphany changed him spiritually from the inside out. The second defining moment was his impetus to change physically. His last defining moment came in November of 2021 during a propane grill explosion, burning both legs. This is a message of hope. No matter what you have done, you can overcome. He wrote this book for you.

About the Author

Michael Basenese is a successful business entrepreneur living in Southwest Florida with his wife of forty-five years, Colleen. He spent twenty-five years as a C-level sales executive. He and Colleen then launched two successful software companies. The first, Family Point, was a front-runner to Facebook in 1996. Family Point reached the top 150 websites in 1999. Their second company, onProject.com, was a project management portal that enabled geographically dispersed teams to work together, apart using collaborative tools. Adopted by large companies like Ernst & Young, Pulte Home Builders, Castle & Cooke, Horton, and Verizon. With success came emotional hardships that led Michael to accepting Jesus as his Lord and Savior. His first book, The Power of Three Joy, describes three life-defining moments that turned his life around.

Remember, all things are possible with God!

ABOUT THE BOOK

J. Will Callahan was a blind poet who lived and wrote in Northern Michigan for nearly 40 years. His most famous song “Smiles” sold 5 million copies during the 1918 Pandemic and World War I. The following year, the world’s largest music publisher Jerome H. Remick paid Callahan $100,000 for “Tell Me.” Callahan worked with over 60 different music publishers and composers. The exquisite designs on the music feature the country’s greatest graphic artists.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

A free-lance writer for the Petoskey.News_Review for nearly 40 years, covering historical and cultural activities, she was able to interview local citizens about historical events and had access to historical records. During this time, she also published with newspapers throughout Michigan and the U.S.

Ms. Doerr is a Level II Alpine Ski Instructor with the Professional Ski Instructors of America. She teaches at Pine Knob Ski and Snowboard School and the Blizzard Ski and Snowboard School. She has also taught on the staffs at Taos Sky Valley in New Mexico, and Boyne Highlands in Harbor Springs.

Book Summary

This book was written on behalf of the love I have for little kittens of all kinds. They remind me of how little children play as they grow up and the mischief they get into.

About the Author

It all started in 1945 in Pickaway County, Ohio. Lester Betts was born. He attended Salt Creek School for nine years and graduated from Logan Elm.

Born on a farm, I drove trucks most of my life. The love of animals inspired me to write this book. The kittens are grown up now but are a lot of joy.

The Texas Toad

by Lawrence S. Rominger

Book Summary

For kids of ALL ages!

With a happy and hoppy pace, The Texas Toad is a wild and fun read! Filled with colorful and captivating artwork paced perfectly with clever rhymes, The Texas Toad is simply great storytelling for adults and children alike.

Be sure to keep a keen eye out for the hidden messages, wordsmiths, and artistic details. There are surely some you will miss the first, second, and third time around!

No worries! The Texas Toad gets better and better every time you read it!

Marketing & Distribution

The marketing and publicity campaign for "The Texas Toad" is being undertaken by the Fulton Books marketing department. Promotion of the book includes the dissemination and delivery of a high volume of press releases and assorted online advertising campaigns.

"The Texas Toad" is available for wholesale order through the Ingram Content Network.

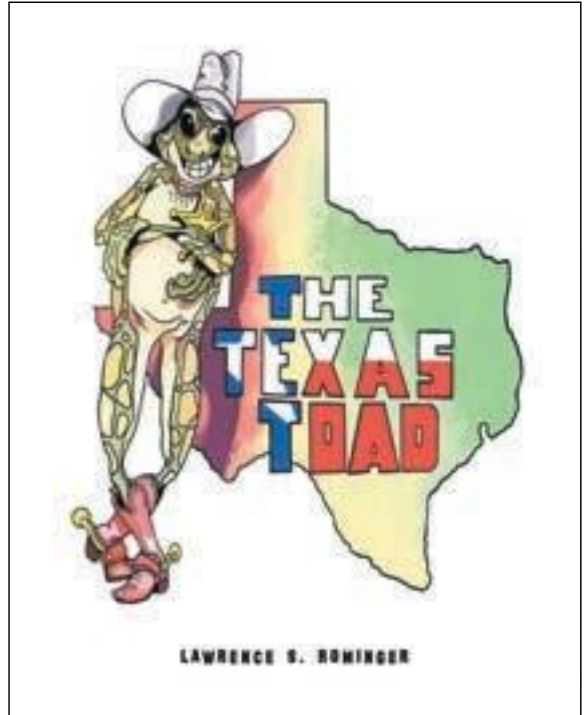

About the Author

Lawrence is a native of North Carolina and a graduate of Wake Forest and North Carolina State Universities. His career in manufacturing and product development allowed him to travel extensively where he met amazing people and collaborated on many products that we use every day.

Lawrence now resides in the Texas Gulf area. He enjoys spending time on Galveston Bay with his wife and helping his sons with their band and entertainment company. He remains active in his profession, creative writing, sports, and volunteer activities. The Texas Toad is a tribute to raising his boys that mixes fun with learning. The goal is to provide engagement to the parent and child alike. If it creates one special parent/child reading adventure together, then the effort was worth it!

Connect with the author at TheTexasToad.com.

Jim Wright was an engineering graduate of the University of Arkansas, a die-hard Razorback fan, a gifted artist, and an office mate of the author. Along with his wife "Mustang" Sally, Jim was raising his sons in the beautiful Missouri countryside when the two first met. Always looking for distractions in their spare moments at work in Neosho, Jim and Lawrence played off each other's humor interests—one could write it; one could draw it. When Lawrence shared the idea of Tex and Fred with Jim, the cartoon characters immediately came to life, and the story wrote itself. Special thanks to Dane Hildreth for his talent and skills that helped finish Jim's work and brought The Texas Toad to life!

Verdict: ★★★★★

A very memorable and heartwarming story about three sisters who were taught to treat everyone with kindness.

This is a highly recommended book for parents and teachers who would like to teach the young ones about what true kindness means. Educational, practical and moving, this book will certainly be worth reading over and over again.

Book Summary

“This mare is spent, joyless, without hope, and at this point in time, she is too dangerous to ride”.

What is to be done with a horse that is unpredictable, even dangerous? Why is the horse acting this way? Is there any way to overcome such challenges? This is the true story of Starlight, a thoroughbred retired from the racetrack, and Tiffany, a young woman seeking the horse of her dreams after devastating loss. Told from Starlight’s point of view, it is a journey through dark emotions and physical challenges to eventually regain strength, confidence, and happiness. It is a tale of a bond between horse and human that is beneficial to both in overcoming anxiety, depression, sadness, grief, anger, and fear. With photos to illustrate this true story, you will find it easy to read but hard to put down.

This book will appeal to

- Anyone who loves horses or a good horse story
- Those who face anxiety, depression, loss, fear, anger, or other strong emotions
- Counselors, who may find that it can be used as a way to launch discussion about such emotions
- Equine therapy practices
- Horse rescue/rehoming groups

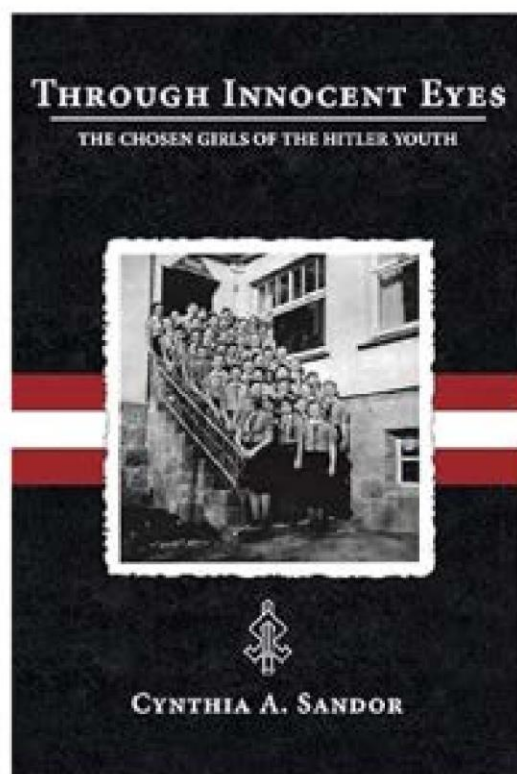

About the Author:

Dawn Smith is retired and living in central Indiana with her sister Diane, quaker parrot Rica, and dog Jedi. After 45+ years as a nurse, firefighter, and paramedic, she is enjoying adventures in retirement, including traveling, making jewelry, learning painting and other crafting, and writing a book. She enjoys time with her son and daughter-in-law with all their animals at their mini-farm Beacon Hill, where Starlight lives.

Book Summary

Hidden for half a century, a daughter uncovers her heritage upon discovering her mother's secret journal chronicling her days in the Hitler Youth.

Marketing & Distribution

BDM History's marketing department is spearheading the promotional efforts for "Through Innocent Eyes - The Chosen Girls of the Hitler Youth." This comprehensive campaign encompasses television, radio, and podcast features, alongside book signings and engaging presentations at libraries, militaria shows, WWII Living History Reenactments, militaria vehicle shows, and museums. This impactful outreach extends online with a vibrant social media presence on Facebook. BDM History is acknowledged within the WWII reenacting community for featuring the only known Bund Deutscher Mädel display in the U.S.

About the Author

Born into a military family, Cynthia Sandor's passion for history led her to author "Through Innocent Eyes - The Chosen Girls of the Hitler Youth" and establish her publishing venture, BDM History, situated in Conneaut, Ohio—a town hosting the largest WWII re-enactment in the U.S. Her literary repertoire includes a memoir, "Reflections - The Story of Dorothy Swanson - Wife of an 82nd Airborne Paratrooper," "BDM History Collection - The Young Girls Achievement Badge," and "Girls in Service - The Official Manual of the Bund Deutscher Mädel." Turner Publishing Company featured her work "Europe to New York City on the United States - July 6, 1957" in the "50th Anniversary Maiden Voyage Edition - S.S. United States: Fastest Ship in the World," by Frank Braynard and Robert Hudson Westover. Cynthia's writings have graced the pages of "Guitar for the Practicing Musician," "Tampa Bay Times," and "The Greenwich Times." Additionally, she produced three television shows for Pinellas County Public Access Television in Clearwater, FL, and honed her craft at the Travel Channel Academy. Her piece "The Crab King of Tampa Bay" was a highlight on Anthony Bourdain's show "What's Your Trip?" Cynthia holds a Bachelor of Business Administration with a concentration in Human Development from Eckerd College and she is a former member of Toastmasters. Cynthia currently resides in Conneaut, Ohio with her Chihuahua, Little One. At this time, Cynthia is immersed in researching her upcoming book, "Walking in my Father's Footsteps," a project inspired by her father's valiant service in the 87th Infantry Division.

There is a lot I still don't know about life or about what the future might bring but I do know who I am and how to incorporate life being more about where we choose to go and not just about where we come from. I believe you can throw out the script we get handed during childhood and make different choices whilst implementing determination and positive affirmation. I have used my faith to demonstrate where I found my strength, this can be applied to any type of belief system someone may have. I hope this book can be an inspiration regardless of who you are or where you are in your own life journey and to encourage that it is not where you start but where you finish that really counts. As a result, I accept the idea that through withered weeds it is truly possible for flowers to bloom.

Book Summary

The Bible declares in Proverbs 3:5–6, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths."

The poetry in this book covers a vast number of subjects, such as attributes of God, family matters, as well as health, including the boundaries of God's divine order.

Unveiled by Truth: The Word of God is Jackie Moody's second book.

The writer of this book has a rich prayer life, consulting God on all of her writings. As you begin to read this book, there will be no doubt in your mind that each and every poem flows from the very heart of God. It is the prayer of the author that every person that reads this book will find the hope, the comfort, and the answers that they need to increase their knowledge of God and to enhance the quality of their life.

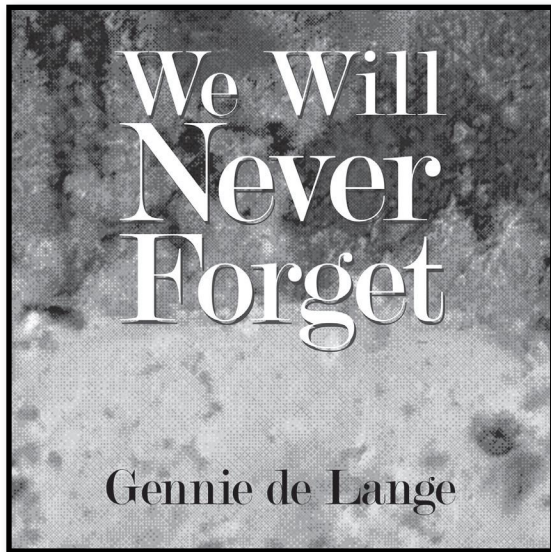

About the Author

Jackie Moody is a devout Christian. She is a dedicated wife and mother to her husband, Steve, and two daughters, Shani and Crystal, and stepdaughter, Tasha.

At the age of sixteen, Jackie entered a competition entitled Teen Talent, which was sponsored by her church, which gave teenagers the opportunity to display their gifts and talents.

She decided to give poetry writing a try. As she prepared to write, God not only divinely inspired her to write and publish her first book called Revelation of the Time, he also literally gave her the words to write her second book, Unveiled by Truth: The Word of God.

God continues to use her to write poems to this day, and she continues to allow him to do so as she writes with love, sincerity, and passion.

About the Book

These are the observations of war, seen through the eyes of the Observer, a gentle toy, a mascot, who has accompanied determined men and women, old and young, through the bewildering, realistic experiences of war.

The Observer witnesses the lives of ordinary people, their anguish, camaraderie, and hopes. So their sky, flowers, insects, and people are not forgotten but will survive.

About the Author

Gennie de Lange, being dyslexic, has drawn on the artistic gift she was given. She grew up during WWII in her grandparents' vast house and forested garden. Being taken to the ballet to see Peter and the Wolf when she was tiny reinforced her beliefs—which many children share—that toys and animals understand everything.

Tales of war from her father were real. He had led a New Zealand dive bomber squadron, from which only half returned. The camaraderie, dare devil escapades, laughter, determination, and sacrifice that everybody was prepared to make and endure were part of life. Her father always felt he was here on borrowed time.

For Gennie, life is a gamble. Being a ceramic artist, every time she puts her work in the kiln is a risk. The glazes that she paints with are all varying shades of powdery grey. After hours in the kiln at very high temperatures, her painted on tiles emerge transformed like stained glass. Her exhibitions sell out. The viewers relate to the subjects personally, being from the dramas of their own lives.

Now in her eighties, she has turned to using her own ceramic paintings as the background. The Observer, who is a worn velvet antique toy, views the devastation of war.

When the Spirit Says Sing! A Brief History of African Slave Songs in the Americas

by Truuke M. Ameigh

Book Summary

When the Spirit Says Sing! tells the fascinating story of spirituals and their relationship to enslaved people of the United States, the Bahamas, and Mexico. It begins with the voyage from Africa as it explores the earliest remnants of African song, surviving in America as the ring shout, native to South Carolina and Georgia.

Most of the spirituals mentioned in the book, including ring shouts, are accompanied by printed lyrics and suggestions for listening on the web. Performers recommended for listening include Kathleen Battle, Mahalia Jackson, Paul Robeson, Bruce Springsteen, Joan Baez, the Fisk Jubilee Singers, and Moses Hogan.

The book covers a wide range of topics, including slave arrivals from Africa, the Underground Railroad, codes and symbols in spirituals, the development of different styles, and the relationship between religion and slavery in the South. The author also describes the roles of abolitionists, stationmasters, and conductors on the Underground Railroad. Each of the abovementioned is accompanied by the depiction of at least one, and usually several, relevant spirituals.

When the Spirit Says Sing! celebrates spirituals as a compelling expression of art and culture. Those with little knowledge of this music will find themselves informed, and those well acquainted with it will find new material to explore. It delves deeply and comprehensively into the role of singing in the lives of enslaved people and is accessible to both novices and scholars.

About the Author

An educator, conductor, organist, and composer, author Truuke M. Ameigh has had a lifelong interest in spirituals. Beginning with school as a youth, spirituals were a source of inspiration. She has taught them and about them as a church musician, a conductor, a public-school music teacher, and a professor. She wrote and published a children’s book about spirituals called Gonna Sing! and has had several organ arrangements published, including an arrangement of Wade in the Water. As a church musician, she has been a recitalist in many venues, and her career as a teacher and as a church musician has offered innumerable opportunities to conduct this remarkable literature.
